Report Big Rail Yards Planned at Morinville To Aid North Shipping

By British United Press

Preparations were reportedly being made today for constructing large railway yards at Morinville, on the Northern Alberta Railway 20 miles north of here.

Unconfirmed reports indicated that the plan was for unloading freight at that point and shipping it by truck the balance of the way over the Alaska highway.

Truckers declared that the Northern Alberta Railway was swamped with general freight for northern development, and that equipment on hand was not sufficient to handle it, with the result that it was expected that truck convoys would begin their run at Morinville instead of at the end of steel.

This move may also indicate plans to build a proposed short-cut road from Grande Prairie, Alberta, through Whitecourt to Edmonton, which would cut over 200 miles from the road trip from Edmonton to Grande Prairie.

Earlier it had been suggested that the Alaska highway be extended south to near Edmonton on this route. If so Morinville could be a convenient point for a tie-in with the railway.

Figures Given

Agriculture Value in 1942 $366,351,300

Gross value of agricultural products in Alberta for the year 1942 was $366,351,300, it was stated by the department of agriculture in a report released Monday.

The total includes aggregates from grain, root and fodder crops, animals slaughtered and sold, dairy produce, poultry produce, honey and wool.

The 1941 total for the same products was $204,689,200. Last high total was in 1927, when a total of $330,000,000 was realized for agricultural products.

There were 3,800,000 laying hens in Alberta in 1942, the report shows. This is an increase over the 1941 total of 2,947,800. The sugar beet crop grossed $3,100,000 last year, with an increased yield of 45,000 tons.

There were 27,500 bee hives in the province which produced 2,500,000 pounds of honey, valued at $362,500. While there were 2,500 more hives in production, pounds per hive dropped from 130 in 1941 to 91 in 1942, resulting in a drop of 620,000 pounds in total production for the year.

Animal population of the province, as at June, 1942, was: Horses, 647,000; cattle, 1,040,800; calves 438,200; sheep and lambs, 825,000; and hogs, 2,062,000. Total value of these animals, slaughtered or sold, was $87,227,000.

Grain crops, wheat, oats, barley, rye, peas, beans, mixed grains and flaxseed, were valued at $113,920,000. Root crops, potatoes, turnips and other vegetables, totalled $3,315,000.

Application For Habeas Corpus Is Refused Bridges

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Federal Judge Martin Welch today denied an application by Harry Bridges, C.I.O. Longshoremen's president, for a writ of habeas corpus to forstall deportation to Australia.

Bridges had applied for the writ on the grounds that the United States Attorney-General, Francis Biddle, acted illegally last year when he ordered the labor leader deported.

The Eye-Witness Story of the U.S.S. Lexington's Last Fight in Coral Sea

THE carrier Lexington's guns had shot the skies over Coral Sea clean of every Japanese plane. But the mass of them had hurt the ship mortally. Bulkheads and plates below were red hot from fires. Bumbling explosion after explosion racked the hull. The stores of torpedoes and bombs might go off at any moment.

STANLEY JOHNSTON, correspondent aboard the Lexington, was inches and instants from death throughout the action. His great risk led to the writing of an eyewitness story as stirring and as clear as the call to battle stations.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Feb. 8. —Maj. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz's Allied air forces opened an all-out air offensive against Sardinia yesterday with two daylight raids by American planes, followed several hours later by a British bombing mission, it was disclosed today.

Boeing Flying Fortresses and Martin Marauders, escorted by Lockheed Lightnings, attacked the enemy airdrome at Cagliari, on the southern coast of Sardinia.

It was the first time the 12th United States Air Force had gone into action against Sardinia. A few hours later, four-motored Royal Air Force Wellingtons blasted the targets that had been set ablaze by the American daylight raiders.

NO PLANES LOST

Not a single Allied plane was lost from the waves of bombers shuttling back and forth from North African bases as Allied fliers opened a determined attack against Sardinia and the vital Axis sea routes from there to Tunisia.

The American daylight raiders, however, accounted for five German Messerschmitt-109s.

It was the first time such concerted day-and-night raids had been carried out against Sardinia, and crews returning from all three raids reported "considerable successes."

(The Sardinia raids coincided with a daylight raid by Middle East-based American planes on the Italian port of Naples. Direct hits were scored on three vessels in the raid.)

HIT PLANE BASES

The full force of Spaatz's attack was directed against the Elmas airdrome and the sea plane base at Cagliari. The fortresses scored many direct hits with high explosive and fragmentation bombs.

As many as 50 enemy aircraft were dispersed on the Elmas airdrome. Bursts were observed on many buildings and hangars and a considerable weight of bombs exploded on the air fields.

Raging fires were started at the seaplane base where dock and hangars were hit. A big column of smoke rose as the marauders started for home on their 500-mile round trip.

LITTLE LAND ACTION

Activity on the Tunisian ground front was limited to patrolling, with Allied forces consolidating on guard for any sign of enemy moves designed to ease the position of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Axis Army Corps at the southeastern tip of Tunisia.

Consols Curling Play-Offs Away To Start Here

Only two of the first six curling games went the full 12 ends as the round robin series in the Northern Alberta British Consols got underway at the Royal rink this morning.

Cliff Wright of the Edmonton, McLaren of Alberta Ave. and Manahan of the Royal all won their starters in Section "A", while the three Berts—Robinson of Aspen, Ross of the Royal and Robertson of the Granite came through in Section "B".

"Whit" Matthews' Royal rink staged a great recovery in the latter part of the game against Manahan after being down 10-3 at the eighth. A three in the ninth and then two successive pairs tied up the score going into the twelfth.

PERFECT SHOT

Manahar was forced to make a perfect shot with his first rock to dislodge the opposing counter and Matthews in attempting a draw ticked his own nail-guard, leaving Manahan with the winner.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill prepared today to report to the House of Commons in one of his big speeches of the war on his historic mission to Africa and the middle east.

He arrived home yesterday after conferring with President Roosevelt at Casablanca, and President Ismet Inonu, of Turkey, at Adana, and visiting the British Eighth Army at Tripoli, and Allied headquarters in Northwest Africa.

Through Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Churchill had promised a full report to the commons as soon as possible and he was expected to make his speech at the earliest opportunity during this week's sittings of the house.

Soon after he arrived Churchill was busy drafting a report to the cabinet and starting to work on his speech, in addition to disposing of work which had accumulated during his absence.

Last evening he summoned to 10 Downing St., his official residence, a group of cabinet and fighting services leaders including Major Clement Attlee, Dominions secretary and deputy prime minister.

British Parachute Bombs—Headed For Germany

Here is the first photo of the parachute bombs which the R.A.F. has been using with deadly effect during raids on Germany. It shows a train of the "blockbusters" arriving at a R.A.F. bomber station's dispersal point for loading onto big Hampden bombers. One advantage of the parachute on the bomb is that the missile floats to earth and doesn't plunge into the ground on landing. The bomb explodes on the surface with much more devastating effect than when it is stuck in the ground.

Heaviest Assault of War Made on Lorient Sub Base

By ROBERT DOWSON
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

LONDON, Feb. 8.—British bombers last night made the heaviest raid of the war on Lorient, French coast U-boat base, and Spitfires crossed the southeast coast again today—maintaining the Royal Air Force's round-the-clock offensive.

Watchers on the coast said the fighters could be seen until they reached a spot close to Boulogne, and they appeared to be heading for the area south of Boulogne.

An air ministry communique said that preliminary reports indicated great destruction was caused at Lorient. Objectives in the Ruhr, in western Germany, also were bombed. Seven bombers were missing.

STEP UP CAMPAIGN

The R.A.F.'s biggest attack upon the U-boat base indicates that the air war against submarine bases has been stepped up, British observers said.

The raid was believed to indicate a pattern of Allied offensive in which all possible blows are being co-ordinated against U-boats in order to clear the sea lanes for bringing in the masses of supplies and reinforcements needed for an all-out attack on Hitler's European citadel.

(Radio Berlin said British planes made a nuisance raid on western Germany last night, dropping a few bombs but doing "insignificant damage." The broadcaster claimed it has been established that 21 British planes were destroyed in the recent raid on Hamburg.)

Among Canadian fliers taking part in the raid on Lorient was Flt.-Lt. Leslie Anderson of 12015 82 street, Edmonton.

Miners Reject Wage Offer by Coal Operators

Miners in the Edmonton district, at a meeting held Sunday afternoon in the Labor Hall, rejected the proposal from coal operators here to increase wages from $4.41 per day to $5, and instructed officials of District 18, Mine Workers of America to apply to the War Labor Board for ratification of their demand for a wage of $5.78 per day.

More than 250 miners from Edmonton and district attended the meeting which was held under the chairmanship of John Stokaluk, vice-president of the United Mine Workers. The vote rejecting the operators' proposal was unanimous.

SEEK UNIFORM SCALE

Negotiations between the operators and miners opened several weeks ago when the miners asked for a uniform wage scale throughout the province. This request would mean the increasing of wages here from $4.41 to $5.78.

The operators countered this proposal with an offer of $5 per day, and suggested that if this was acceptable the miners file a joint application from the operators and district 18 officials should be made to the War Labor Board for ratification of the new rate.

It was pointed out by the operators that any increase would have to be passed on to the consumers, and that an application for ratification of this increase would have to be made to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Pending the disposition of the miners' application to the War Labor Board the miners will continue work at the old rate of pay.

Gasoline For All Cars in 1943-44

By THOMAS WAYLING
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—There will be gasoline for all cars in 1943-44, it was learned in official circles here today. It will not be as ample as 1942-43 but AA Cards will be issued to all car owners.

There will be three categories: AA, special and commercial motor. The minor category AA, will be printed in black, the special category in light red and the commercial motor vehicle in brown.

The new system will go into effect on April 1. Everybody must apply for a gasoline privilege registration, a gasoline license and ration book coupons; and the application must be for category AA. Then if the applicant considers himself entitled to a special or commercial category a special application must be then made to the regional gasoline ration board.

The forms will not be distributed by mail but must be obtained from the nearest postoffice or the regional office.

The basic gasoline ration allowable under the AA category will be 2,000 miles for the year, unless the gasoline situation becomes more acute.

Cold Weather Returns Here: Will Continue

Edmonton took a sudden and unpleasant plunge into sub-zero temperatures over the week-end, and once more faced icy cold winds after but a week's respite.

Promises of a blizzard coming in from the north came on Saturday, and while the actual blizzard held off until late Sunday afternoon, temperatures started a downward trend Saturday night to finally reach 21 below Monday morning.

Highest temperature on Sunday was 14 below, while the lowest recording was 20 below.

Snow commenced to fall late Sunday and by Monday morning had piled up fair sized drifts which kept pedestrians stepping high.

Snowfall recorded at the Dominion Meteorological station in the Highlands was 26 inches. The stiff wind sweeping down from the north was sufficient to keep this piling up and interfering with traffic.

CARS TIED UP

Due to power failure the street car service on the blue and blue and white lines was suspended for more than 30 minutes Monday morning starting out at 8 a.m.

Street cars were re-routed along 107 avenue to carry the passengers downtown, but those residents along the line from 112 street to 107 street along Jasper avenue and 124 street were without service.

Delays occurred on all lines owing to snow conditions which made traction extremely difficult. There were no derailment reported.

In the north, where the blizzard

Commander of Holland Nazi Legion Killed

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(CP)—Lt.-Gen. Hendrick Alexander Seyffardt, 70, commander of the Netherlands Nazi Legion, was fatally wounded by revolver bullets in front of his home late Friday, Aneta News Agency said today, quoting a broadcast by the German-controlled Netherlands radio.

The broadcast said Seyffardt died Saturday. It did not specify where he lived, but Netherlanders in London said his last known residence was in The Hague.

KILLER UNIDENTIFIED

The first report gave no indication of the identity of the assassin, Aneta reported.

Only last week Gen. Seyffardt was appointed to the personal cabinet of Anton A. Mussert, chief of the Dutch Nazi party and Hitler-appointed leader of the Netherlands people, with the joy of raising armed forces to join the Axis armies on the Russian front.

Gen. Seyffardt was also president of the military division of the German-established "peace courts" in Holland. He was 70.

Gen. Seyffardt, who was chief of the general staff from May, 1920 to was retired in May, 1934. While in retirement he began to evince pro-Nazi sentiments. When the Germans occupied Holland he was the only Dutch general to go over to the Nazi side.

He took the initiative in forming a "vrijkorps"—volunteer legion—of Dutch Nazis to fight on the Russian front. He succeeded in raising a relatively small number of men, most of whom have been killed in action against the Soviet forces.

Continuance of Lend-Lease Aid Asked by Stimson

He said munitions and supplies sent to the Allies is "not charity" on the part of the United Nations, but rather the "best method for putting our industry and resources to the best use in defeating the enemy."

"Man on Flying Trapeze" Has Nothing on This Gent

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The man on the flying trapeze had little on muscular, 33-year-old John Koruda, employee in a meat packing plant, who swung four persons to safety from a third-floor burning window yesterday when fire swept a rooming house.

Asleep in his bedroom in an adjoining building, Koruda was awakened by his daughter, Catherine, 22, who saw Mrs. Jean Hilton, 24, leaning out of a window of the burning building with her nine-month-old infant in her arms.

Koruda swung his left leg out of the apartment, straddling the window sill and facing Mrs. Hilton. Then, as his daughter held his other leg, he reached out across the four-foot alleyway and took the baby.

That done, he reached out again, locked hands with Mrs. Hilton and lifted her into his apartment. The operation was repeated to rescue Mrs. Hilton's husband, William, 34.

About this time, John Guida, another third-floor tenant of the burning building, was prepared to jump 45 feet to the pavement. A blazing staircase also had cut off his escape.

"Wait a minute!" Koruda yelled. "Don't jump! I'll get you across!" And he did, in the same fashion he had helped the others.

Russ Troops Said Inside Gateway City

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(BUP)—Radio Ankara said today that Russian troops had entered Rostov and that street fighting was taking place inside the city.

MOSCOW, Feb. 8.—Red troops hammered at the German line at the Don river mouth today, the rich prize of Rostov within sight and almost within grasp.

They had formed a 28-mile front on the south bank of the river from a point southeast of Rostov to the Taganrog Gulf of the Sea of Azov on the west. Rostov was a few hundred yards away, on the north bend of the Don, and Russian big guns were moving up to open on the city, which had been the German gateway into the Caucasus but was now a Russian gateway into the Donets Basin.

There were indications that the Russians might have crossed the Don at a point west of Rostov. There the river splits into its several mouths which empty into the Sea of Azov along a 22-mile stretch. At a point 25 miles west of Rostov the midnight Russian communique reported fighting all Sunday as

Confusion in Thought Barred Early Alliance

He urged that the confusion of thought regarding Russia of fear and suspicion of that country be dispelled and that the peoples of the United Nations meet their Russian allies in the post-war period in the development of alliances that will prove mutually beneficial to both countries.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Feb. 8.—(CP)—In the biggest single day's air battle to date in the southwest Pacific, 26 Japanese planes were destroyed and 15 damaged over Wau, New Guinea, Saturday. Not a single Allied fighter was lost in the fierce dogfighting which lasted all day.

It was an all-out attempt by the Japs to ruin the Wau airdrome around which ground fighting has been continuing on a small scale for several days. Land fighting was limited to patrol activity.

Air Personnel In Quebec to Face Charges

MONTREAL, Feb. 8.—(CP)—Air Vice-Marshal Albert de Niverville, officer commanding No. 2 command of the R.C.A.F. here, said last night that "certain members of the command's personnel "are being detained during an investigation into serious charges."

Air Vice-Marshal de Niverville made his statement when questioned by reporters about reports that three non-commissioned officers had been detained. He said:

SEVERAL DETAINED

"It is quite true that several members of the personnel are being detained during an investigation into serious charges. The men will be prosecuted before the civilian courts. They will be in custody of the Royal Canadian Mounted police shortly and any statement in the case should come from them."

He declined to comment further and the names of the men involved were not disclosed.

No comment could be obtained at R.C.M.P. headquarters.

"This is an air force matter," said one official, "and until we have these men in our custody and charges are laid we can say nothing."

It was reported unofficially that the investigation arose from charges that sums of money had been obtained from prospective recruits under promises of preferred treatment. It was said by reliable sources that a number of persons paid various sums of money to enter the R.C.A.F. ground crews after receiving notices for military call-up.

HELD THREE WEEKS

The sources added that those detained have been in custody of the R.C.A.F. security police for three weeks. The R.C.M.P. was said to have made a preliminary investigation at the request of air force officers, with the security police taking over the inquiry later.

Claim Canadian Transport Sunk

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(CP)—The German-controlled Vichy radio yesterday broadcast a claim that 100 Canadian soldiers, only survivors of a large transport sunk in the Atlantic by U-boats had been landed at Gibraltar.

The claim lacked confirmation in London and was viewed by qualified sources as a German "feeler."

"The Axis often puts out false stories about Canadians in the hope of getting information and this looks like another of these feelers," one source said.

OTTAWA, Feb 8 — (CP) — A spokesman for naval intelligence department said last night he had no comment to make on a broadcast by the German-controlled Vichy radio that 100 Canadian soldiers, only survivors of a large transport sunk in the Atlantic, who were given supplies and clothing to replace personal effects lost.

Many Survivors Landed at "Rock"

LA LINEA, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A total of 136 survivors of Allied ships sunk off the Portuguese coast in the past three weeks reached Gibraltar between Jan. 1 and Jan. 5, some of them from Portugal, and others by ship, it was reported here Saturday. Several Canadian women were among the survivors who were given supplies and clothing to replace personal effects lost.

the front is described, the Russians crossed a "water barrier" and captured three villages.

REPORT DOUBTED

The report of street fighting in Rostov came from Stockholm but the British United Press Stockholm bureau reported that it originated in an unreliable quarter, considered allegedly on a Moscow radio broadcast. Apparently the report was an interpretation of the midnight communique's report of the smashing of a water barrier by Russian tanks, which apparently crossed a frozen river. London believed that the fighting was in villages near Rostov.

The Germans made a desperate attempt by counter-attacking to retrieve the serious losses suffered yesterday when the Russians drove through to the Don mouth, capturing Azov and Kagalnik, and also took Olginskaya, five miles east of Rostov on the south side of the river.

The noon communique reported that the enemy attacked savagely. But the attackers were met by massed machine gun and mortar fire which forced them to retreat leaving many dead on the battlefield.

MUST LEAVE BY SEA

Below the Don, the remnants of the Axis army of the Caucasus were pressed into an area of about 80 by 90 miles with the only hope of escape across the Kerch Strait into the Crimea.

North of Rostov, on their 250-mile offensive front stretching from the Donets basin to a point 30 miles north of Kursk, 280 miles south of Moscow, the Russians drove forward on the central front, after a series of major victories yesterday in which they captured the three Kramatorsk steel and chemical centre in the Donets basin 103 miles southeast of Kharkov, cut the main Kharkov-Belgorod-Kursk Moscow railroad at Gostishchevo, 15 miles north of Belgorod and 60 miles north of Kharkov, and cut the Belgorod-Oboyan highway at Fatezh, 30 miles northwest of Kursk.

In the Kramatorsk area, the noon communique reported, the troops of the famous Guards Regiments stormed an inhabited place, knocking out 11 German tanks and capturing important spoils, while in another sector tanks thrust through to the enemy rear and routed a column of infantry.

MANY SUCCESSES

North of this front, in the area west of Kupyansk, 65 miles southeast of Kharkov, Russian troops drove into an inhabited place and captured it in a street battle in which they killed about 300 Germans, capturing prisoners, and took two tanks and three anti-tank guns. Troops in another sector killed about 200 Germans, destroying four tanks and three field guns and captured 45 motor trucks and large quantities of arms, the noon communique said.

North of Kursk the Russians captured several additional inhabited places during the night and this morning, the noon communique said. They killed more than 400 Germans and captured 22 tanks, 23 field guns, 42 machine guns, 20 trench mortars, 20 motor trucks and other spoils.

Military dispatches reported that on the front between the Donets basin and Kursk, Russian armies under Col.-Gen. Philip Golikov and Col. Gen. N. F. Vatutin were systematically cutting the complicated network of railroads and highways which connect Kharkov and such powerful enemy bases as Kursk, Orel and Briansk, 220 miles southwest of Moscow, preparatory to attacking those great strongholds direct.

Golikov was now only 27 miles east of the Kharkov-Brussuk railroad after making a gain of 65 miles within a few days.

Vatutin had driven a wedge southwestward on his part of the front, starting about 55 miles south east of Rostov, and was pointed toward the important main railroad city of Lozovaya, 75 miles south of Kharkov after he had captured the towns of Savintsi, 55 miles south east of Kharkov; Protopopovka, 60 miles southeast of Kharkov, and the towns of Petrovskaya and Grushevakha, south of Protopopovka.

Canada Setting Up 5-Man War Supplies Branch

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley announced today in the House of Commons that Canada is setting up a five-man war supplies allocation board which will transfer supplies directly to Allied countries, on a credit basis where necessary.

He said the government will ask Parliament for a grant of $1,000,000,000 to finance operations of the Board, but he gave no indication how long that $1,000,000,000 is expected to last.

At the same time Mr. Ilsley announced that under a "Mutual Aid Bill" to be introduced shortly in the house, Canada will take over all United Kingdom interests in war plants and equipments in Canada, valued at about $200,000,000.

COMPLETE OWNERSHIP

Canada thus will obtain "complete ownership and control" of all plants and equipment provided under the Joint Canada-United Kingdom capital assistance program administered by the Canadian munitions department.

The war supplies allocation board, forecast in the Throne Speech opening parliament, will be made up of five cabinet ministers.

It will transfer to other countries among the United Nations supplies made in Canada, over and above the Dominion's own requirements "as distributed from time to time according to the strategic requirements of the general pool of United Nations war supplies.

and accompanying moderate sub-zero temperatures were general. Lowest point was Vermilion with 48 below, while Fort Smith and Grouard followed close behind with 32 below.

Other prairie cities in the main had escaped the sub-zero temperatures. Only cities to register below zero readings were Medicine Hat with five below, Battleford with one point higher; Lethbridge with eight below and Calgary with 13 below.

Walter S. Campbell, coal administrator at the Wartime Prices and Trade Board stated Monday that he did not anticipate any serious shortage of coal as was experienced during the cold spell in the middle of January. The mild weather of the previous week gave people a chance to get caught up on their coal supplies.

In addition to this, Mr. Campbell stated that the charge of 25 cents now permitted distributors would encourage the delivery of smaller lots of coal and therefore ensure a more equal distribution. The charge is only in effect until the end of March.

Forecast is not hopeful of better weather for the present, for it reads "fresh winds, partly cloudy and cold with light snow falls or flurries."

War News Summary

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 8

Russia: The fourth battle of Rostov was under way today with German positions in the city under shellfire and assault, while elsewhere along a 500-mile front the Red Army reported cracking the Nazi 1942 line southeast of Kharkov and on both sides of Kursk.

The last of the Axis army of the Caucasus was caught in a trap opposite the straight of Kerch and the only escape appeared to be a costly withdrawal by sea to the Crimea.

The Russian thrust at Azov, 15 miles southwest of Rostov, put the third arm in position for a broad frontal attack.

North Africa: Intensive patrol activity, which some observers believed to be the forerunner of the British 8th Army's next major attack was reported along the Tripolitanian-Tunisian border.

Rain and mud slowed operations on the western Tunisian front British troops were consolidating positions near Djebel Aidoudi, 30 miles southwest of Pont Du Fahs, after a week end withdrawal from that hill position which they had captured last Wednesday.

Air War: Allied bombers from African bases made a return visit of Naples ahism in a large-scale Sunday daylight attack and routed hits on harbor ships at the big loading port for war material for Tunisia.

German submarine base at Lorient on the French coast was given an overnight pounding which the British ministry described as its worst of the war, and other R.A.F. raiders struck anew at the Ruhr Valley.

Benito Names Ciano Envoy to Vatican City

By JOHN A. PARRIS
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright 1943 by The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 8—Benito Mussolini by sending his son-in-law, Galeazzo Ciano, to Vatican City as ambassador, as announced by Axis radios, put a second key man today at a spot where, if the chance came when defeat loomed for the Axis, he could effect contact with the Allies quickly in an attempt to break away from Germany.

Diplomatic quarters suggested that Mussolini sent Ciano to the Vatican first to make it appear, after his dismissal from the foreign ministry, that he had merely switched jobs, and secondly that Mussolini wanted to build up relations with the Vatican.

Many quarters believed that Ciano, at bay with Adolf Hitler and in fear of his life, had asked for the job so he would have a safe retreat and might induce the Vatican to bring its influence behind a possible Italian peace move later on.

Last week Mussolini sent Augusto Rosso, former ambassador to the United States, to Turkey as ambassador to the court of Laurence A. Steinhardt, American ambassador to Turkey.

It was reported here that the Italian cabinet shake-up as part of which Ciano was dismissed stemmed from military defeat and a consequent German threat to occupy Italy.

According to this report, which circulated in well-informed quarters, Ciano, Dino Grandi; who was dismissed as justice minister; Marshal Pietro Badoglio, dismissed early in the war as chief of the general staff, and possibly Marshal Ugo Cavallero, who succeeded Badoglio and was himself recently dismissed, had demanded that Mussolini withdraw from the government as a preliminary to a peace bid.

Heavy Air Assault Made on Rangoon

NEW DELHI, Feb. 8.—(BUP)—Royal Air Force pilots flying B-24 Liberators, dropped nearly 30 tons of heavy bombs on Rangoon, Japanese capital of Burma, during the night, a British headquarters communique said today.

"Last night Royal Air Force Liberators dropped nearly 30 tons of heavy bombs on objectives at Rangoon," the communique said. "Fires were left burning as our aircraft left the target area.

"Yesterday one formation of Blenheims, escorted by fighters, bombed a Japanese-occupied village east of the Kaladan river, in western Burma, and another similar formation destroyed some enemy motor transport.

"Offensive patrols included attacks on small coastal shipping along the Arakan coast. None of our aircraft was missing."

Early Action On Rumi Tax Plan Sought

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Budget Director Harold D. Smith, who is President Roosevelt's personal fiscal adviser, appealed to the United States treasury and congress today to get together "immediately" on pay-as-you-go tax legislation so that the new plan can start functioning April 1.

Smith's statement, made in an interview, hinted of indirect White House intervention to end arguments over details of the legislation.

Smith indicated administration approval for cancellation of up to three-quarters of 1942 taxes to facilitate immediate operation of the plan.

ADJUSTMENT NEEDED

"The shift to source collection for most taxpayers," he said, "without collecting two years' taxes in one year will require an adjustment of their present 1942 tax liability. It would be desirable if such a shift could be enacted so that collection at the source can start on April 1, 1943.

No contemplated plan, however, would excuse the necessity of filing the usual tax returns on March 15 and of paying at least the first instalment on the taxpayers' declaration."

Pay-as-you-go legislation, he added, "will work out to the best interests of the taxpayer and the financial position of the government, as well as aiding the stabilization program."

dent Kiwanic club; and S. H. McCuaig, K.C.

Sir Bernard reviewed the defeat of Russia in the great war, and the events leading up to the revolution in that country and the making of a separate peace with the Germans.

DEPLORABLE STATE

He said that the deplorable state of government in that country at this period was responsible for that collapse. The armies had no munitions, and shortly after the outbreak of war the supply of munitions was exhausted and their commanders were told there would be no more for six months.

The Russian army was pounded to pieces three times before the actual surrender, but despite lack of arms and munitions the German armies of that day were never encircled. The complete conquest of Russian armies could not be accomplished without encirclement. He added that Russian armies must retire when suddenly attack is made on their frontiers. It takes 15 days to mobilize these armies to strengths after such an attack, he added.

He said the world revolution policy of the Russian government of Trotsky has been abandoned in favor of the Stalin policy of internal development, and the setting up of agreements with other countries that will be mutually beneficial.

WERE ENEMIES

Stalin and Trotsky were bitter enemies, he said, the one favoring the cry of world revolution. He was a great friend of Germany and a bitter hater of Britain.

Stalin is a man of Russia, unlike Trotsky, he has seldom been outside the country. The latter was a revolutionary scheming the overthrow of governments from outside Russia.

The success of Stalin in the overthrow of Trotsky was in much the success of the Russian people who wanted the development of their country above any world revolution.

On Guadalcanal Yank Forces Outflank Japs, Form Strong New Position

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—United States forces have outflanked the Japanese on Guadalcanal Island, the navy department announced yesterday, to establish a strong new position about five miles west of the enemy command centre at Cape Esperance.

The operation, apparently carried out without Japanese resistance, was assumed here to have involved a 40- to 50-mile overland sweep around the enemy-held portion of the northwestern hump of the island.

The American troops were reported to have taken up their new positions at Titi, a hill-mile west of Marovovo. A navy spokesman described Marovovo as being five miles west of Cape Esperance and about 25 miles by air from Guadalcanal air field, the base of the American forces. It is a station of the Melanesian mission, situated on high ground and including among its buildings a church, hospital and several dwelling houses.

The communique made no mention of the widespread sea and air actions reported all last week between Japanese and American forces in the Solomons area. This left unanswered the question of whether the operations had ceased or whether they were still moving toward the climax which Navy Secretary Frank Knox said Saturday was indicated by the nature of the manoeuvers in progress.

Catroux, Giraud Hold Conference

ALGIERS, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Gen. Georges Catroux of the Fighting French national committee, conferred Saturday with Gen. Henri Honore Giraud on taking a high post in Giraud's French African government. It was expected Catroux would remain here permanently after a trip to Syria, where he has been delegate general for Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

British Press Again Demands Europe Invasion

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's return from his 10,000-mile air tour of North Africa and the Middle East touched off new demands today for speeding the invasion of Europe while the Russians have the Germans rocking on their heels.

Every cry sounded the warning that not an hour must be lost.

The Times set the pace with the declaration that "if the moment cannot be seized before the impetus of the Russian advance is exhausted, the enemy may gain breathing space for recuperation and be enabled to carry on the struggle into another year."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said: "Already the Russian offensive has gone on for many weeks longer than any previous offensive. The resources of Britain and America must make ready to take over the burden. They must lose not a day and not an hour."

"The great Russian sweep forward," said The Daily Mail, "serves only to emphasize in starker clarity the urgency of an Allied offensive somewhere in Europe early this year."

Some of the plans adopted at the conference were understood to be so vital that they were not entrusted to couriers or cables but were brought back by Mr. Churchill himself yesterday.

LONG SPEECH LIKELY

It was anticipated that his speech might be the longest of his parliamentary career, but that he probably would leave a great deal unsaid.

Observers expected little but generalities about the time and place of an offensive against the continent and of the result of the conference with President Ismet Inonu of Turkey, but there was hope for an assurance of closer coordination of Allied operations and a clarification of the military command in North Africa. Speculation over this has reached the argumentative stage here.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—(CP)—It was learned on good authority here last night that the air raid precautions organization in Canada may change its name from ARP to Civilian Defence. Such a change has been proposed and now is under consideration.

Hitler Raises Occupation Bill For Frenchmen

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(CP)—The bill for the German occupation of France has been raised to 500,000,000 marks from the former 300,000,000-mark total as a result of the visit six weeks ago by Pierre Laval, Vichy government chief, to Hitler's headquarters, authoritative reports today indicated.

(Before the war the mark was valued at 40 cents, but it is no longer quoted in the foreign exchange market.)

Laval merely received the demand and was given no chance to object, informed quarters said.

Other demands on France were increased at the same time, these quarters said, although the information has been concealed from the French public.

ITALY BOOSTS COSTS

Payments to Italy for occupation costs have been stepped up to 35,000,000 marks monthly.

With the increased payments to both the occupying countries the printing presses of the Bank of France, the money-issuing agency, have been working overtime.

Extensive deliveries of railroad rolling stock are being made to Germany despite the fact that more than a third of all such equipment which France possessed in 1940 has been surrendered to the conquerors.

Another 2,500 skilled French railroad workmen are being sent to Germany in addition to 9,500 already there.

German demands for wheat have been increased by an unspecified amount, although of France's 1942 crop of about 194,000,000 bushels, 23,000,000 bushels have already gone to the Reich.

Brazil Joins Allies As Full Partner

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Brazil joined the United Nations as a full partner in the war against Germany and Italy and announced her adherence to the Atlantic Charter following a meeting Saturday of the entire cabinet with President Getulio Vargas.

Foreign Minister Oswaido Aranha said yesterday:

"Brazil's adherence to the Atlantic Charter and the United Nations pact does not mean declaration of war on Japan. Our position is comparable with that of Soviet Russia in relation to Japan.

"We are not at war with Japan because we have not been attacked by Japan. But if tomorrow Japan attacks us, we will fight her immediately.

"Meanwhile our relations with Japan are broken."

Brazil broke diplomatic relations with Germany, Italy and Japan, Jan. 28, 1942, and declared war on Germany and Italy Aug. 22.

Eisenhower Will Command North Africa War Theatre For Showdown in Tunisia

By EDWARD D. BALL

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The Allies set the stage for the impending showdown in Tunisia Saturday by naming Lt.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower commander-in-chief of a new North African theatre of operations shortly after the French political situation in North Africa took a hopeful turn for the better.

Gen. Henri Giraud established a new war committee in French North and West Africa, supplanting the old imperial council formed by the late Admiral Jean Darlan Giraud's step apparently left the way open for the fighting French under Gen. Charles de Gaulle to be represented, and Gen. Georges Catroux, of the Fighting French National committee conferred with Giraud in Algiers Saturday on taking a post in the French African government.

RESULT OF PARLEY

Both Giraud's new committee and the separation of the U.S. North African theatre of operations from the European theatre were seen as direct results of the Roosevelt-Churchill Casablanca conference.

(In Washington the war department said the new theatre of operations would include the northwestern section of North Africa covering French positions in Africa, including Tunisia, Morocco and Algiers, but would have no effect on the commands of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, British 8th Army leader or Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Middle East commander.)

Such troops of the British 8th Army as enter into operations in Tunisia will come under Eisenhower's command, however, authoritative sources in North Africa reported.

The North African theatre and the Egyptian-Libyan zone of British Middle East operations are divided roughly by the eastern border of Tunisia.

Under ordinary military procedure, Eisenhower would be outranked by both Gen. Alexander and Gen. Montgomery.)

EXPECT CLARIFICATION

London military circles did not interpret Eisenhower's appointment as a full and final answer to the question of who will direct the United States, British and French forces in the final cleanup of Tunisia. A London dispatch said there was some feeling that Prime Minister Churchill might clarify the situation before the House of Commons soon.

Observers speculated that under the new setup Gen. Alexander would become commander of all ground forces in the Allied Mediterranean campaign, with British Air Marshal Sir Arthur William Tedder in charge of the air forces and British Admiral Sir Andrew B. Cunningham in charge of all fleet units.

In the event of a simultaneous attack on the Germans at several points in the Mediterranean area it would be necessary to have one co-ordinated command, and most military experts believed the Tunisian show would be completed successfully in the near future.

They predicted that Eisenhower's command would be extended over the entire Mediterranean with Alexander, Cunningham and Tedder as his chief subordinates.

Veteran Alaska Pilot Found Dead

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The body of Harold Gillam, veteran Alaska pilot, was found on the beach of Boca de Quadra Saturday, a month after his plane with five passengers aboard crashed on a mountain peak in the Alaska wilderness.

A coast guard searching party found the body. Gillam, who had left his passengers to seek aid for them, evidently died from shock and exposure.

The fact Gillam carried matches when he started for help led experienced northerners to express the theory that the pilot must have fallen into water and lost his matches or he would have been able to have saved himself.

Japanese Vessel Fired in Attack On Ambon Island

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Feb. 6.— (Delayed)—(AP)—One of the largest raids in the northwestern area was staged today by a sizable group of heavy bombers against enemy-occupied Ambon Island, with Japanese shipping in Amboina harbor as the principal target.

Ambon is situated west of New Guinea and almost due north of Darwin, Australia.

The 1,000-mile mission was credited with a 10,000-ton enemy merchant ship set on fire, another probably hit and five Japanese Zeros shot down. Fate of the vessel was not observed.

One Allied Ship Lost in Atlantic During Last Week

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Only one United Nations merchant vessel was announced last week as sunk in western Atlantic waters, the lone seven-day total of announced losses for the area in 61 weeks of submarine warfare since the United States entered the war. The previous weekly low was five ships.

The latest sinking brought to 611 the Associated Press tally of announced Allied and neutral cargo ship losses in western Atlantic attacks since Dec. 7, 1941.

Veteran Retires

WILLIAM A. BROCK

Former Stage Driver Turned To Iron Horse

WINNIPEG, Feb. 7.—William Alfred Brock is a former stage-coach driver who turned to the iron horse when the railways came to supplant that colorful mode of pioneer travel in the west.

The 65-year-old veteran has just retired on pension after 43 years with the Canadian Pacific Railway as fireman and engineer in British Columbia, western Ontario and Manitoba.

Born at Wyevale, Ont., January 13, 1878, he went west in 1896 to Golden, B.C. Then a roaring mining camp. Farm-bred he understood horses and soon landed a job driving a stage coach from Golden up the Columbia valley to Fort Steele. Later he manned a government barge which was dredging the Columbia to keep navigation open and when this job petered out he turned to switching in the yards of a lumber company. The engine used for switching was the locomotive now known as the "Countess of Dufferin," preserved as an historical relic at the C.P.R.'s Winnipeg station. In those days—1898—it had completed its notable role as the first engine used on construction of the C.P.R. in the west and had been relegated to commercial servitude. Later, of course, the famous engine was reclaimed and set up as a memento of the past.

BUG BIT HIM

It was while switching for the lumber company, Mr. Brock says, that the "railroading bug bit me," and in September, 1899, he started as a wiper with the C.P.R. at Field, B.C. He worked as fireman on the "Big Hill," at Field, and also out of Revelstoke and Kamloops until 1903 when he came to Winnipeg. For 18 years he ran as fireman and later engineer out of Kenora. Since 1921 has has been working out of Winnipeg, much of the time in passenger service.

Now that he is retired the veteran intends to remain in Winnipeg, taking up summer quarters at Kenora and St. Joseph's Island, Ont., Mrs. Brock's old home town. They were married in Kenora and have a son, Thomas W., overseas with the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg, and a daughter, Jean, at home. Curling, fishing and golf are Mr. Brock's hobbies, and throughout his long career with the C.P.R. he found time to be interested in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He was chief engineer of Division 76 of this organization from 1936 until December, 1942.

Gordon Refuses To Boost Ceiling On Potato Prices

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(CP)—M. M. Robinson, president of the Ontario Food Distribution Council, said here Saturday that Prices Board Chairman Donald Gordon had refused to consider an increase in the potato price ceiling and that wholesalers would cease handling potatoes.

Mr. Gordon had refused to see a deputation of potato wholesalers who went to Ottawa to make suggestions for easing the potato shortage in the dominion, but he listened to the views of a committee of administrators and deputy administrators of the prices board, said Mr. Robinson.

"We have no kick at Mr. Gordon seeing these men for they all agreed with us that some steps should be taken to relieve the situation, and their recommendations were, as we know, in favor of an increase in price.

ROSSLAND, B.C. Feb. 8.—(CP)—A two-month-old baby girl seriously ill with whooping cough and pneumonia showed some improvement last night following injection of hyper-immune serum rushed from the University of Minnesota yesterday by airplane, bus and private automobile. The improvement was reported by officials of the Rossland Clinic where the child is being treated.

The above map shows the whole Russian front from Leningrad to the Caucasus and illustrates the general development of Russian strategy as it now appears. It will be seen that a general German withdrawal from the Donets Basin and the upper Caucasus, also from the Rzhev salient, has already become impossible to accomplish without inviting disaster.

Zouave Regiment Fights Toughest Tunisia Battle

By NOLAND NORGAARD

WITH U.S. FORCES IN SOUTHERN TUNISIA, Feb. 5.—(Delayed)—(AP)—They sat after dinner, singing jauntily and drinking wine—those 16 officers of a famous Zouave regiment—and you knew that France had been reborn in the gallant army fighting in North Africa, because these men had just come through the toughest experience of any troops in Tunisia.

Their battalion manned 7½ miles of the Tunisian front, "spread out"—their major illustrated by dipping a finger in his wine and drawing it across the table—"thinner than that."

They lacked modern equipment, and when Germans and Italians five times their number attacked with tanks, dive-bombers, mortars and all the other paraphernalia of lightning warfare, the Zouaves fought back with rifles of 1914 vintage and a few antiquated horse-drawn 75's.

FOUGHT 36 HOURS

For 36 hours they savagely beat off attacks. By then they were surrounded and their position looked hopeless. But they refused to give up and when American planes dropped notes telling of a possible escape route, they tried to fight their way out of the tightening ring of Axis troops.

More than half of the officers and men never made it, but those who did are merely resting a bit before they go back to fight again.

picked up the big plane at the coast.

Arriving in London by train, Churchill was greeted by his wife, his daughter, Mrs. Duncan Sandys, and her son Julian, a group of cabinet members and a big cheering crowd. Mrs. Churchill threw her arms around him and kissed him heartily.

FEELS "SPLENDID"

Smiling broadly as he stepped onto the platform, wearing his air commodore's uniform, Churchill said:

"I feel splendid. It was a perfect flight."

In his luggage was a small crate of oranges.

It was indicated that in his conferences in Northwest Africa, where he talked to Lt.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander in chief, and Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, Churchill had gone into the first steps to be taken to drive the Axis out of Africa.

There was no information here regarding rumors that Churchill had conferred secretly with General Charles Noguès of France—rumors which authoritative Madrid informants said were believed to be without foundation.

Alexander, first lord of the admiralty; Sir Archibald Sinclair, air minister; Viscount Simon, lord chancellor; Brendan Bracken, information minister; Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay, deputy military secretary to the war cabinet; Admiral of the Fleet Sir Dudley Pound, first sea lord and chief of naval staff; Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal, chief of air staff, and Stanley Bruce, high commissioner for Australia.

SEES FILMS OF TOUR

Late last night Churchill, with Mrs. Anthony Eden and a group of service officers, went to the Ministry of Information Movie theatre to see the current film success, Casabianca, and news reel pictures of his tour and his arrival home.

Political quarters forecast that Churchill's commons speech would be long and rousing. They expected him to discuss fully his meeting with President Roosevelt and President Inonu and to make briefer references to his visits to Egypt, Cyprus and Tripoli, in addition to giving the house an important summary of the entire war outlook in connection with the agreement he reached with President Roosevelt that the three big Axis nations would be forced into unconditional surrender.

There was some expectation that Churchill would face persistent questioning on the North African political problem.

It was expected also that there would be a commons debate on the basis of the speech.

ASSURED OF SUPPORT

However, Churchill's prestige is now higher than ever before and he was assured of the full support of the house.

Churchill arrived at a British airport yesterday in a United States Army Liberator bomber piloted by Capt. William van de Kloot. He spent some time talking to Capt. van der Kloot but did not, informants said, take the controls. He spent much time sleeping. The Liberator, named Commando, had a Turkish crescent and the Russian hammer and sickle painted on its nose to mark Churchill's flights in it to Turkey and, last year, to Russia.

Canuck Fliers Blast Targets In Rhineland

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(CP)—Scattered targets in the Rhineland were attacked Saturday night by R.C.A.F. planes whose main mission was reconnaissance while R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. big bombers centred their attention on mining German-controlled waters—probably the Skagerrak, Baltic and French Channel coast. Three planes were lost in all operations, two of them Canadian.

German rail lines already are under sustained, persistent attack and the lack of rolling stock has forced the Germans to rely more and more on coastal shipping. The mines dropped in narrow channels around the north of Hitler's "European fortress" are expected to harry that means of communication.

ONE FIGHTER LOST

In daylight forays yesterday over northern France and Belgium, the air ministry announced one fighter was lost.

The Germans sent four Focke-Wulf 190 bombers over a town in southeast England yesterday, killing several persons, trapping others and damaging a number of buildings in the shopping district.

One bomber smashed through a house, turned sideways and bounced into a second building where its explosion killed three women.

Challenging Axis claims of Allied aircraft losses in January, the R.A.F. announced it had lost a total of 122 home-based aircraft as against Nazi contentions that 238 were destroyed in the west and over Germany. The British announcement said the R.A.F. and U.S.A.A.F. lost 158 planes in the Mediterranean theatre. The German high command communique totals for the period added to 250.

John B. Creasy, Former Ottawa Official, Dies

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—(AP)—John B. Creasy, 72, executive officer of the Ballona Settlement Society of Los Angeles, who in 1941 was awarded the Order of the British Empire by King George VI for long and faithful service to the King of England, died Saturday.

He was commissioner of pensions here for the Canadian government, state pensions officer for the Canadian Legion and member of the British United Services Club, Sons of St. George and Canadian Legion Post 10.

Born in England, Creasy came here in 1920, following four years' service with the Canadian 78th Battalion, Winnipeg Grenadier Guards.

Social Credit Caucus Against Election Move

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—(CP)—John Blackmore, New Democracy leader, said in a statement issued after a caucus of his group in the house of commons that "We see no excuse for an election at this stage of the war."

Mr. Blackmore's statement, apparently referring to recent unconfirmed reports that Prime Minister Mackenzie King might call a general election some time this year, said:

"Our position taken at the outbreak of war was one which has never had to be changed—we're proud of it—but if Mr. King does go to the country we are certainly not afraid to go to the mat with him."

SUPPORT AMENDMENTS

Mr. Blackmore said his group will support both the Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. amendments to the motion for adoption of the speech from the throne, but he added: "This does not mean we are in favor of all the C.C.F. and Conservative policies."

(The Progressive Conservative amendment expressed regret that the throne speech did not adequately deal with manpower, labor or agriculture. The C.C.F. amendment added an expression of regret that the throne speech did not provide for mobilization of industry and wealth in the same degree that manpower had been mobilized.)

Reference to the recent disallowance by the judicial committee of the privy council in London of Alberta debt legislation, Mr. Blackmore's statement said:

"ANXIOUS" VIEW

"In the light of the recent action of the privy council in respect to Alberta debt legislation, the caucus viewed with considerable anxiety the apparent reticence of the prime minister to make some announcement giving protection for the western farmer against foreclosures which are being made."

Without giving details, Mr. Blackmore said the caucus decided "to broadcast to our constituents in Alberta a week-by-week report of what is happening in parliament."

Attempt Is Made To Assassinate Morocco Governor

BERNE, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A dispatch from Tangiers, Spanish Morocco, to the Geneva Tribune, reported Saturday that Governor General Auguste Noguès of French Morocco recently escaped an attempt on his life.

Although the Tribune's correspondent quoted a report of an Italian newspaper correspondent, the Swiss reporter said he believed the account was true.

He said the attempt occurred after the departure of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill from Casablanca. A group of local inhabitants was said to have opened fire on the carriage of Noguès with automatic pistols. Four of the would-be assassins were said to have been executed.

Important Landmark

First R.C.A.F. Contingent Of Trained Bomber Crews Arrives Safely in Britain

By SCOTT YOUNG

A BRITISH PORT, Feb. 8.—(CP)—A new important landmark has been planted firmly in R.C.A.F. history with the arrival in Britain of the first contingent of fully trained operational bomber crews ever sent from Canada to the United Kingdom.

These operational crews, who have been working together for many months at operational training units in Canada, took the spotlight in a convoy which also bore other R.C.A.F. personnel, including members of the women's division and fighting men of the Royal Canadian Navy, the R.A.F., R.A.A.F., R.N.Z.A.F., the Fleet Air Arm, the Army and girls of the first British contingent of the Canadian Red Cross Corps.

Formerly R.C.A.F. personnel received training in Canada and then were posted to operational training units in Britain to receive a final brushup before going to operational units, but the time before these new arrivals will go to operations has been cut to a minimum.

This arrival was mainly an air force show, but among troops in the same convoy were reinforcements for many branches of the swiftly-growing Canadian army which is held in readiness for action when everyone feels must come soon.

There were also enough members of the R.C.A.F. women's division and Red Cross girls to make the trip more than normally enjoyable for the Navy men whose every day work it is to see that their charges get across the seas safely.

Army arrivals included reinforcements for the artillery, armored corps, infantry, ordnance and service corps units. Among them were senior artillery officers.

Vote Confidence B.C. Tory Leader

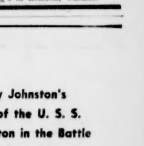

VICTORIA, Feb. 8.—(CP)—With only one dissenting vote, the British Columbia Conservative Association executive, at its quarterly meeting here Saturday, passed a vote of confidence in the leadership of Attorney-General R. L. Maitland.

"Members generally spoke in approval of coalition as a war emergency, which condition brought about the entry of the B.C. Conservative Party into the present government arrangement," a spokesman said.

Before the vote endorsing Mr. Maitland was passed, the executive tabled a resolution from Vancouver Centre Association to have a provincial convention called to choose a new B.C. leader, in place of Mr. Maitland. No mover or seconder for it could be found.

Mr. Maitland led his party into a coalition with the Liberals in December, 1941, after a provincial general election in which no party gained a majority.

It Might Be Worse

Pleasure driving is now illegal in the eastern states—and the penalty is no more gasoline for the offender for either pleasure or business driving. More than that, he may be black-listed on circumstantial evidence. If his car is found parked at the ball grounds or other place of entertainment, or where evidently used for such a social engagement, the owner will be assumed to be guilty of wasting gasoline and rubber.

This should help any complaining Canadian motorist to get over the feeling that he is being harshly treated. He is subject to nothing worse than restriction of supplies of fuel and tires. He is left free to do his driving when, where and for what purposes he may please.

Remembering that war obligations of the two countries are on a parity, and that more gasoline in proportion is produced in the United States than in Canada, the Canadian driver should easily reconcile himself to the quite painless inconvenience imposed upon him.

If, as seems likely, the ration "unit" has to be again reduced in Canada, the person who drives for pleasure will not have much to complain about. Drivers in the eastern states, who number as many as in all Canada, are not allowed to do any pleasure-driving at all.

Heading Toward Unity

General Giraud is reported to have abolished the imperial council established by the late Admiral Darlan in North Africa, and substituted a war committee which will include representatives of General de Gaulle. If so the cleavage between the Generals is apparently to be bridged, since their difference was said to relate to the question of setting up some authority to head a United French movement throughout the world.

This political difference has fortunately not spread dissension between the troops of the leaders. Both the de Gaulle army from central Africa and the Giraud army in Tunisia have been going after the enemy with evident relish and splendid success. These forces, acting independently, have in fact been doing most of the fighting on the ground, operating in territory outside the heavy rain belt.

That the soldiers of de Gaulle and the soldiers of Giraud are thus vieing with each other in zeal to overcome the leaders of the protectorate is reason to hope that the leaders will reach an agreement which will unite the two forces in organization and direction, as they already are united in purpose.

To suppose the Generals will allow any difference on a non-essential matter to block the combining of their military strength is impossible.

Scape Goats

Premier Mussolini emerges from the shake-up at Rome as a five-in-one cabinet within the cabinet, having annexed the portfolio of foreign affairs by kicking out his no-account son-in-law, Count Ciano. He also packed company with the veteran Count Grandi and seven other colleagues, but replaced these with party trusties who are less known and whose reputations are therefore less conspicuously tarnished.

Whatever these proceedings signify, they do not suggest harmony in the Fascist camp, or that they have got the better direction of the important business in hand. That the reorganisation came about because of the unfortunate course taken by the war is to be supposed. But that the re-alignment will detract Italian attention from the loss of the African empire is not likely.

If this were the aim the axe should have landed elsewhere. Mussolini has himself been minister of war, of the navy, of the air force and of the interior. And it was the fighting forces which left the colonies, not the department of foreign affairs, the department of justice, nor the other branches upon which Benito's wrath has fallen.

Ciano of course deserves kicking anytime, and with Italy shut off from the world and taking orders from Hitler there is not much for a foreign minister to do. Still, if incompetent direction of the war was the cause for action, neither he nor Grandi were properly in line for the boot. If the object was to avenge the lost colonies, placate the turbulent Italians, and introduce efficiency, Il Duce should have fired himself.

Manpower Problem

Not many men in Canada are actually idle. Practically all are working at something. There is no considerable pool of unemployed men, or of loafers, from which to draw workers for munitions plants, farms, mines, forests and factories where necessary civilian supplies are turned out.

Selective service in such circumstances means taking men from non-essential or less-essential callings and setting them at jobs which really need to be done. Logically this is the thing to do; there is no argument on that score. But in practice it is something not to be done easily, or without great difficulty. And in a democracy the question cannot be avoided as to whether the public would stand for it being done. Partisans may harangue as they will; the fact remains that the man with the ballot is the final authority.

Broadly speaking there are two ways of going about the readjustment of manpower. One is to apply compulsion; to simply order men, Hitler like, to quit their present jobs and go to others. Just there comes the rise of the practical difficulties. What is to happen if a man earning ten dollars a day is told he must take work elsewhere at five dollars a day? Should he have to stand the loss? Should the taxpayers put up the difference, and give him his former pay in the new job? And what would the five-dollar a day employees do when they found that the newcomer was getting ten dollars a day? A strike-closed plant is the answer.

The other method is to take off wage restrictions and allow employers to compete for men by offering higher rates of pay. Yet if that were done the basic wage rates would go up, prices would go up in direct consequence, and the price ceiling would be blown to pieces.

But the primary fact remains that manpower has to be readjusted if we are to reach the ideal of 100 per cent production. How would it be if some of the critics, who are so insistent that the Government has made a mess of the selective service business, were to take time out to say or even hint how the thing should be gone about? No one else seems to know the sure-fire way of solving the problem. From their silence on the subject it is to be suspected the critics don't know either.

Saturday Night Radio Review

A Summary of a Broadcast Delivered Over CFRN February 6

By HAROLD L. WEIR

The Allied armies continue to make progress in North Africa. While the situation is steadily improving there, that complete control, which is probably essential to a successful invasion of Southern Europe, has not yet been achieved.

Victories on the Russian front are more decisive. The German losses in men, equipment and territory are prodigious. The greatest loss to the Nazis, however, is in domestic prestige. The Nazi leaders have been forced to abandon their policy of promising an easy and early victory to their people. It was noteworthy, this week, that the German press was instructed to cease claiming victory and to ease up on their attacks on Britain.

Harold L. Weir

In the Far East the picture of war, no startling victories have been announced, although details of a naval battle, so far withheld by the Americans, may furnish encouraging news. Progress throughout the Pacific area has been slow but steady.

The submarine warfare, upon which the enemy seemed to be pinning its faith, has been gravely accelerated. The submarine menace is increasingly serious.

Is Hitler Dead?

This week, the New York Daily News, a mighty powerful paper, belonging to the McCormick-Paterson clan of Chicago Tribune notoriety, made the startling speculation that Adolf Hitler might be dead.

The Daily News apparently was struck with this dreadful thought because the Fuehrer failed to give his customary broadcast on the celebration of his tenth pontifical anniversary in Berlin. Its editors argued that a man of Hitler's passion for oratory displays and bombastic speeches could not have been kept away from that important affair unless there was something seriously wrong with him.

It is strange that Hitler should forego this pleasure. It is strange, too, that a report about the same time should indicate that he had relinquished control of the German armies to his generals.

These facts lend some color to the speculation that the Daily News that Hitler might have been put to death by a group of Prussian officers.

Nazis Promote It

If the Daily News makes this suggestion in a spirit of faith—although its isolationist and anti-British policy renders it subject to suspicion—it is not likely that Prussia is handling fits of hysterical tears over the Casablanca conference—all or any of which might be the case.

If, however, the weight of evidence causes you to believe that this venerable warrior departed this life, don't be prematurely gay about it. I warn you.

If Hitler is dead, or if he dies, the war will be taken over by the Prussian military caste. And I want to tell you that the Prussian military caste is infinitely worse than Adolf Hitler.

Remember that while the political arm of the Nazis originated with Hitler, the means of attaining those aims are a Prussian invention.

Junkers Worse

Hitler planned the conquest. The Prussian militarists planned the brutality by which it was effected. Hitler planned the economics. The Prussians invented the concentration camps in which this damnation is carried out.

Hitler condemns the aged and helpless and sick. It is the Prussian scientists who devise the means whereby they will be put to death.

Everything cruel, inhuman and beastly in this war is the invention of the Prussian militarists who have been practising these things for more than forty years.

If and when the war should pass into control of the Prussian junkers, these generals might try to make an early peace. But they would only do it for the sake of saving as much manpower as possible to stab us in the back again at the earliest possible moment.

Don't rejoice over premature or actual reports of Hitler's death. To pass from Hitler to the Prussian generals would be to jump from the frying pan into the fire.

Hitlerism is a terrible disease that will pass. Prussianism is a chronic plcer that has grown on the body of humanity for generations.

Russian Conquest

Another conjecture that persists strangely and which came to open argument this week was that the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics plans a conquest of the world when Germany is defeated.

This rests upon a dual birthplace. It originated in the minds of American isolationists and British reactionaries who feel that they can squelch the social reformers by holding out the terrors of a Russianised world.

The second birthplace of this idea was the propaganda ministry of Herr Doktor Paul Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's liar extraordinary, who has been exploiting the horrors of communism, not only to inspire a fear of a Russian invasion among the German people, but to the forlorn hope that the Allied nations might take alarm and cease their aid to Russia.

The sinister purpose behind all this blackguarding of the Russians are so obvious that I am amazed that some intelligent people take them seriously.

Of course there is a danger that a group of Russian fanatics might want to conquer the world. We have wild groups of that kind in every country.

Not Planned

But there is this to be said:

Whatever might have been planned by Lenin and Trotsky in the enthusiasm of their successful moments, whatever missionary work was done in foreign countries by undisciplined zealots, the fact remains that the present Russian program does not adapt itself to world conquest.

We used to point to the great Russian army and say that all this force was destined for a European invasion. That great army and air force was the effective complement of all our tame parlor fascists.

We know now that this great force was destined for nothing but its present purpose—resistance to a German assault which Russian statesmen knew to be inevitable and to believe we would.

All this talk of Russian world conquest is deliberately designed to upset our morale and cause a breach in the ranks of the United Nations.

Don't listen to it. It doesn't make sense.

Alien Students

Here is more news about those alleged enemy aliens who are supposed to have been admitted to an eastern university by mistake.

Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto made a statement about Saturday.

Dr. Cody said that fifteen aliens released from internment with the consent of British and Canadian authorities, had applied for admission to the University of Toronto. While the faculty was considering the request, six of them entered Queen's, McGill and St. Francis Xavier. Nine of them have been admitted to Toronto.

It is not as bad as it appeared at first.

But it seems to me that fifteen young men who are healthy enough and bright enough and trustworthy enough to take the places of our Canadian boys in Canadian universities, should be strong enough, and trustworthy enough to be in Canadian uniforms fighting the battles of the country that is allowing them.

The situation, as it appears now, still smells bad.

Rumor Clinic

The Rumor: That French-Canadians called up for training are given automatic rifles which are never given to English-speaking trainees. That they get unlimited supplies of jam and sugar.

The Fact: This is untrue. All army camps get exactly the same kinds of rations which include almost unlimited supplies of jam and sugar. This report may refer to the camps of Italian and French-Canadian trainees all the English possible. This extra instruction may be classed as special privileges, otherwise all trainees are treated exactly alike.

The Rumor: That the reason for the butter shortage is that the last shipment of butter to England was sunk.

The Fact: No commercial shipments of butter have been made to England since 1939. Outside of a few minor amounts of butter for the Red Cross or similar agencies, there have been no commercial export shipments of butter, leaving the past two or three years.

The Rumor: That in order to create a shortage the Canadian government is paying farmers to throw meat away.

The Fact: The Wartime Prices and Trade Board writes thus: "This one is so silly that even Goebbels would be ashamed of it."

The Rumor: That food is wasted in the Navy. That perfectly good food is thrown overboard when Canadian ports each week or month in order to make room for new regular supplies.

The Fact: No regular ration of food is issued to any ship in the Royal Canadian Navy. A ship is provisioned from a central depot and each base for the period of time it is expected to be absent from a provisioning base and a small preceentage to cover emergencies and possible changes in destination. Accounts are kept of daily balances. Provisions on hand are checked when estimating future requirements. At regular intervals a special officer goes aboard ship, musters the stock on hand and estimates the requirements. In rare cases, due to refrigeration difficulties, heavy weather or damage, odd items may be jettisoned as being unfit for human consumption. In every such case, the ship must make out a report in detail from the commanding officer.

This ends the rumor clinic for tonight. Don't report rumors to them. Send them to me at The Edmonton Bulletin for investigation and report.

Complacency

There is a very grave disposition on the part of a good many people to assume that the war is nearly over and that our efforts may be relaxed.

This is a very dangerous assumption largely because the first part of it might be true.

It would be foolish to think that the Germans and Japanese are not still exceedingly powerful elements. They still have immense armies and huge quantities of first-class armaments.

Moreover it is going to be a tremendous job to assault their vital points. These are well protected and strongly guarded.

Nevertheless, there is a hope that the war may be shortened. We have gained certain strategical advantages which make us sure of victory, under certain conditions.

But while the war may be shortened, don't think it is going to end suddenly or in a blaze of glory.

It is going to end in our favor, not because of our strategical advantages entirely, but because the entire force of the Allied Nations, civilian as well as military, are now being lined up in the fight. Any break in the close organization for victory will put us back where we were a year ago. The war can still be lost.

If the end of the war is in sight, even if it were in sight within any predictable date, which it is not, there is all the more reason for maintaining our effort and avoiding relaxation.

It is always the last battle that renders the decision. It is always the last battle that is the toughest.

The more it is true that the war is being shortened, the more it is true that the most terrible times for us are still ahead. When our Canadian army gets into action, which will be late in the year, the Canadians will have to work harder to support that army than they have ever done before. That will be the supreme effort.

Don't relax. Don't get careless. With all the emphasis at my command, I beg you to avoid complacency and cocksureness and over-confidence as you would avoid the plague.

Mr. Weir broadcasts every Saturday night at 8:15 over radio station CFRN (1260 Kc.)

Silent War Most Dangerous

Hitler Relies on Subs to Save Him From Defeat Is View

By RAMOND CLAPPER

WASHINGTON—The belief here and in London that Hitler is depending on his submarines to save him has been strengthened by the promotion of Admiral Karl Doenitz, commander of the submarine fleet, to supreme command of the German navy.

As a submarine commander at the head of the German naval service, we may be sure he will fight for top priorities in German manpower and materials for constant expansion of the submarine fleet.

Raymond Clapper

Hitler's chief hope now must be to shoot down the Allies through submarine operations. His army's strength has been so crippled in Russia that its offensive days may be over. It must have suffered also a severe loss of prestige and confidence. Likewise the German air force has been losing superiority everywhere, and the American air operations are just beginning, as the first American bombing of Germany last week suggests. Even the submarine warfare could Hitler see any prospect of checking the rising strength of the Allies. So it is natural that he should give submarine construction and operations the right of way now both as to materials and as to manpower.

That, however, is a definitely defensive step. It is an attempt to starve the Allies by blockade, by choking the Allied supply lines across the Atlantic and in the Mediterranean. That is a defaying measure on the part of Hitler, intended to disorganize the blows that the Allies are going to strike next. Mussolini says victory will go to the side that can hold out a quarter of an hour longer. Hitler will use the submarine to try to get that last quarter-hour.

The Allies have expected this for some time. We have had months of warning, particularly in the high rate of submarine construction in Germany and the difficulty in breaking it up by bombing. As has been state by the British government in the Commons, the highest rate of sinkings in the whole war followed the Allied landings in North Africa.

Subsequent improvement in the sinking rate carried with it no confidence of a basic improvement in the situation and both ourselves and the British expect some very destructive blows at the Allied offensive measures through rapid construction of escort ships, and more use of the airplane, and the combination of all other possible kinds of attack, will be necessary to hold our own. The new German naval commander devised the wolf-pack tactics, and these are constantly being improved and elaborated.

This is the silent war. All governments surround submarine warfare with extreme reticence. Our officials say the public does not appreciate the danger, but it has not been possible as yet to publish the facts about submarine sinkings that would dramatize the extent of the losses effectively.

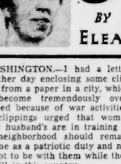

Some good reasons exist for withholding the information, although a more liberal compromise might be reached so that the public would become as aware of the situation as it was last winter when submarines were operating savagely along our own East Coast. More detailed information would make clear to the public the heavy pressure of necessity that lies behind restrictions, such as those on oil and gasoline, which are directly connected with the shipping shortage.

The man who has had more experience in anti-submarine warfare than anyone else probably is Admiral Sir Percy Noble, now in Washington as British naval representative on the combined chiefs of staff committee. He says there is no royal road to success over the submarine. Numbers of escort ships are the key. Blimps with synchronized air patrols are the chief anti-submarine weapons as he sees it. Improved detection devices and increasing skill of crews may make these weapons gradually more effective.

This silent war in the Atlantic will do much in the coming months to decide how far the fighting in Africa and Europe will get us this year.

My Day

BY

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON—I had a letter the other day containing some clippings from a paper in a city, which has become tremendously overcrowded because of war activities. The clippings urged that women whose husband's are in training if that neighborhood should remain at home as a patriotic duty and not attempt to be with them while they are still in this country.

The letter accompanying these clippings stated that when a man was in training, the probability was that he would soon be ordered out of the country and that, if it was possible, it seemed only right that his wife and children, if he had any, should be near him. What did I think was the right procedure to follow?

It is a difficult question, because I do know that in many places, the Travelers Aid Society and all the local groups are attempting to find places for strangers to live and to tide them over until they have found a place. Every such agency is overburdened.

When a city becomes overcrowded, it is not just the lack of housing which is felt by all the residents. It is harder to get laundry work done and to buy food, transportation facilities are overtaxed, schools are overcrowded, places of entertainment are constantly filled to the limit. For the people who regularly live in that city, it is a difficult and often a disagreeable situation.

This is enhanced if the relatives and friends of the men in training require much assistance and, in addition, complain of the hardships which they had to endure. Yet, when all is said and done, if the man is going to leave this country on foreign service, and if his wife and children are willing to try to be with him until the last minute, I think nothing should be done to make it possible.

It will require self-restraint on the part of the visitors, but all of us are citizens of a great country which is at war and these hardships are part of the war. Therefore, I think we must try to approach the situation with good will on both sides.

Some of my saddest letters come from the young newly married, who have no children and who know when the man goes off, they must go back to a job so that they will not find the hours dragging. Every mother knows that they can have with the man of their choice is like the pearl of very great price hidden in the oyster, because it is surrounded by so much that is ugly and hard to face.

Elmer Davis Defies Hull On North Africa; Why Stalin Declined

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—How intense cabinet officers feel about the State Department's policy in North Africa is leaked out when Elmer Davis asked for a passport to send his Office of War Information French expert Edgar Mowrer to Algiers.

Mowrer, long news correspondent in Paris, knows the French intimately, was a friend and supporter of Secretary of War Stimson and has a one-time boss Secretary of the Navy Knox. Also, having lived in France, Mowrer also has been a vigorous critic of our pro-Fascist policy in North Africa.

Drew Pearson

After Davis asked the State Department for Mowrer's passport, several days passed. Nothing happened. Finally Davis himself phoned Secretary Hull, asked if the matter could be expedited. Hull replied that he would look into it.

Thereafter, Secretary of War Stimson called Elmer Davis on the phone.

"I ask you as a personal favor not to send Mr. Mowrer to North Africa," Stimson said. "He will be a disturbing factor. He will upset many of the things we are working on. He won't fit in at all."

To this Davis replied: "Mowrer is the man I need in North Africa and I've decided to send him."

Later, Davis got a call from the Secretary of State. Mr. Hull also urged that Mr. Mowrer not be sent to North Africa. He made the same arguments as the Secretary of War, namely that Mowrer would cause a disruptive influence. But Elmer Davis stood his ground.

"I want Mowrer in North Africa," he told Hull, "and also I want him to have the power to bring other men over to work with him."

"Well, I shall not take personal responsibility in the matter," replied Secretary Hull. "The passport will have to be ordered by the President of the United States."

And while Mowrer, staunch friend of democratic Frenchmen, was kept waiting in Washington until Roosevelt's return, Mr. Hull gave a state department visa to Marcel Peyrouton, who, as Vichy minister of police, had ordered de Gaullists, shot anti-Hitlerites, jailed Jews. But Hull expedited his flight from Argentina to become political adviser of Algiers.

Stalin Declined

The diplomatic grapevine has brought a new reason why Stalin didn't want to join the party at Casablanca—the danger of being dragged into a political discussion over future boundaries of Europe.

One year ago, Foreign Minister Litvinoff flew to London, took the initiative in discussing post-war boundaries. But the British were gun-shy.

Since then Stalin has reversed his policy of advance boundary agreements, has announced a policy of self-determination of nations. With large Russian minorities also in Poland, the Baltic states, Rumania, this means a good slice of eastern Europe would join Soviet Russia.

However, some U.S. plus some British leaders now have reversed themselves about not agreeing on boundaries in advance, perhaps fearing that Russia might reach too far. they want to work out preliminary peace plans now rather than haggle over them at the conference table.

This advance dealing of the boundary cards, according to the diplomatic grapevine, was what Stalin wanted to avoid at Casablanca.

What Russia wants after the war is a slice of Finland, one-half of Poland, the Baltic states, the Carpathian provinces of Hungary, the Bukovina of Rumania, all of Bulgaria, which is very pro-Russian, enough of Jugoslav—also pro-Russian—to secure an outlet on the Adriatic, and an outlet on the Persian Gulf. This would give Russia direct access to the Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean. Obviously Churchill, who says he is not out as prime minister to liquidate the Empire, can't be enthusiastic about that.

Shipments on Feb. 5: Eight cars of cattle, two cars hogs, one car calves and hogs, one car calves, hogs and sheep to B.C., one car hogs to Eastern Manada, two cars cattle to country points.

Export Business Is Wheat Feature

WINNIPEG, Feb. 8—(CP)—Export businers to the United Kingdom, estimated at 2,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, featured news on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. In addition sales of Canadian flour to the United Kingdom equivalent to 750,000 bushels of wheat were reported.

The May future, however, closed unchanged at 92¼ cents a bushel.

In the cash wheat market only odd cars of the lower grades sold on an all-rail basis to Eastern Canada. A moderate amount of cash oats and barley also went to eastern buyers.

In the coarse grain pit local liquidation appeared in oats and barley. Shippers and mills offered support in oats while shippers and exporters were after barley. The volume of trade was small and prices eased slightly. One or two minor trades in rye were reported.

Grain inspections at Winnipeg for Feb. 6 and 7 totalled 222 cars against 484 cars a year ago.

Country marketings Saturday totalled 512,000 bushels compared with 324,000 bushels a year ago.

Miners Out Again Drumheller Mines

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

DRUMHELLER, Feb. 8. — The free coffee issue again brought the Newcastle miners on strike this morning. The surface men are demanding free coffee from the company this morning in the 25 below weather. A week ago there was a one day strike over the same issue at the same mine. This morning it was reported that some of the miners did not favor striking but could not work without surface men. The company refuses to supply coffee.

The strike at the Star Mine, Rosedale, entered its eighth day today with men demanding free carbide, also payment for loss of a half shift work when the mine fan broke down some time ago.

Chicago Wheat Drops Slightly

CHICAGO, Feb. 8—(AP)—Hedge-selling caused a minor decline in wheat prices today. Other grains mainly followed the bread cereal lower. Traders said reports from southwestern markets indicated holders of "free" wheat were offering it more readily. It was also considered likely that more wheat under government loan was being redeemed and offered in open market.

Wheat closed off ⅛-⅞, corn ⅜-½ lower, oats dropped ¾-1 cent, rye lost ¾-1⅛.

Canadian Guns Given Yanks as Japs Attacked

TORONTO, Feb. 8—(CP)—Leighton McCarthy, Canadian minister to the United States, said in an address prepared for delivery to the Canadian club here today that Bren guns, "In some quantity" actually were flown from Toronto to "a distant point in the Pacific" in December, 1941, after the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor.

"Our neighbor now was at war," he said. "Among other things, this meant the transformation of our arrangements under the Hyde Park agreement.

FACED WITH DEMAND

"Where we had been seeking an outlet for Canadian supplies we were now faced with an urgent demand . . . Joint defence also assumed a new and very lively aspect, and we had reason to appreciate the months of preparation that the Ogdensburg agreement had given us.

The Ogdensburg agreement provided for the establishment of a defensive alliance between the United States and Canada on a continental scale.

"Subsequently, combined machinery for the conduct of the war began to develop, and there were many questions to be worked out regarding Canada's association with this machinery."

MACHINERY NEEDED

Both the Ogdensburg and Hyde Park agreements required machinery. To carry out the former, the Joint Defence Board was established, and in the case of the Hyde Park agreement joint United States-Canadian committees were organized to control and integrate industrial production and the supply of essential raw materials.

"Beyond a doubt," said Mr. McCarthy, "the combined war output of the two countries is considerably greater today than it could possibly have been without the Hyde Park agreement. Significantly, about one-eighth of Canada's war output now moves to the United States. As a result we are able to pay cash for the war materials we must import from her for our own use."

"Let me assure you," he added, "that this war effort of ours is appreciated in Washington. . . . We should have no inferiority complex—not even alongside the might and majesty of the United States of America."

Finns Claim Toll Of 85 Red Ships

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—The Finnish high command, which has rarely reported anything more significant than patrol actions from its eastern front in recent weeks, said in a special communique broadcast Saturday that ice formations had interrupted naval activity in the Gulf of Finland after a season in which 85 Soviet vessels were sunk.

The broadcast from Helsinki was recorded by the Associated Press in New York.

Finnish and German air forces, "as well as our coastal defence," were declared to have sunk 31 submarines, two gunboats, two escort vessels, 16 motor torpedo boats, 23 patrol motor boats, eight minesweepers and three unidentified ships.

In addition, 48 craft were declared damaged.

"Our naval forces have not lost a single ship during the corresponding period," the special communique said.

It made no mention of air losses, nor German shipping losses which by Soviet accounts, have been heavy in that area.

Airman Is Killed In Road Mishap

CALGARY, Feb. 8—(CP)—One British airman was killed, another was seriously, but not dangerously injured, a third was hurt and four others are suffering from shock and bruises as a result of an accident shortly after 7 p.m. Saturday night on the Edmonton trail when a crash tender from No. 37 S.F.T.S., R.A.F., turned over about 12 miles north of Calgary.

The men are all British, members of the R.A.F. and stationed at No. 37. Those suffering from injuries and bruises are being treated at the station hospital. Their names are being withheld until next-of-kin are notified.

A spokesman for the station said seven men, including the driver, were riding on board the tender, a vehicle used after air crashes when it skidded, crashed through a row of posts and cable and turned over in the bed of a stream alongside the road.

Mid-Air Collision Of Two U.S. Planes Claims 14 Lives

GREENVILLE, S.C., Feb. 8. — (AP)—Public relations officials at the Greenville army air base Saturday announced that 14 men were killed in the crash of two army medium bombers on a farm 12 miles south of Newberry, S.C., late Friday. The victims included the crews of the two bombers, which were flying in formation on a routine training flight from Tampa, Fla. Other planes in the formation arrived at their base safely. A board of officers was assigned to investigate the crash which was believed caused when the two machines collided in mid-air.

German U-Boats Now in Action Top June Peak

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—There are now more German submarines at sea than there were even last June, when they ran up their highest record of merchant ship sinkings, Navy Secretary Frank Knox said Saturday, in declaring that the U-boat remains the most serious menace in the Atlantic.

Knox told a press conference there was "no question at all but that Hitler is counting on the submarine war in the Atlantic for his major sea effort of the war."

He is devoting all available construction facilities to submarines, Knox said, and is putting more and more of the craft into operation.

To offset this threat, Knox said, "we are straining every effort to produce anti-submarine craft."

The principal U-boat concentrations are in the North Atlantic south of Iceland, on the route to Britain, Knox said, and a secondary concentration is along the route to North Africa, although the submarines can not operate too close to Gibraltar because of sea-air patrols from that bastion.

Sinkings are continuing off the northern coast of South America and off Brazil, Knox said, although much progress is being made toward making that region considerably safer.

Australian Envoy Says Allied Unity Must Be Continued

WINNIPEG, Feb. 8—(CP)—Maj.-Gen. Sir William Glasgow, Australian high commissioner to Canada, said in an interview here last night that the present war is teaching co-operation and unity between all Allied nations and this spirit must be carried into the post-war era. He said that the top of the hill for the Allies has at last been seen "and ahead victory can now be expected."

"Australia won't be satisfied until Japan is pushed back to the place from whence she came, and when Australians are set on something they generally do it," the high commissioner said.

Shoe Rationing Is Ordered in United States

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization, announced yesterday that shoes will be rationed immediately in the United States at the rate of three pairs per person per year.

The order covers all kinds of leather shoes except house slippers and soft-soled infants' shoes. The order took effect yesterday.

Until Tuesday morning it will be illegal to sell shoes. On Tuesday morning stores will be allowed to resume selling shoes to persons surrendering ration coupons.

ISSUE COUPONS

The first ration coupon for shoes will be good for one pair until June 15. Another stamp from war ration book No. 1 will be designated later for the next period of approximately four months.

Because of the widely differing needs of men, women and children, families will be allowed to pool their coupons to suit family needs. Thus a father who does not need three pairs of new shoes a year can use some of his coupons for children who need more than three pairs a year.

In outlining the scope of the order, the White House announcement said that manufacturers "will be asked in the near future to develop 'war model' or utility types of shoes of standard quality and pleasing design at a reasonable price."

OTTAWA, Feb. 8—(CP) — A Prices Board spokesman said last night it was not expected that Canada would follow the lead of the United States by rationing shoes. He said the board had not further comment to make on the United States move.

Robertson's Granite Curlers Stop Royal Skip; Take Two Events

Manahan Rink Wins 16 Out of 17 Games

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

ALTHOUGH the visiting rinks did not get quite an even break with city curlers in so far as prize list booty was concerned at the bonspiel just ended, 13 of the 32 prizes aside from those in their own event, the Edmonton Motors (city) and the aggregate went to out-of-town skips. In other words just a mite more stayed in Edmonton than went away.

Louis T. Ooi, of Acme, won the Bank of Montreal event, finished third in the T. Eaton and secured a third in the Visitors as his share of the spoils. Skip H. H. Jamieson, of Sylvan Lake, also copped more than one, capturing a third in both the Grand Challenge and the Gas Co. competitions. The Brower rink, of Innisfree, won the four sets of curling sliders, first prize in the Visitors and probably the most sought after prize in the entire bonspiel.

While the biggest winners of course were Cliff Manahan and his Royal curlers, Bert Robertson's Granite rink also picked off a pair of events and as a matter of fact the 19 city prizes won in the eight events went to 17 different skips, an exceptionally wide distribution.

It was only in the Jackson competition that the visitors drew a blank, but they took three out of four in both the Bank of Montreal and City Dairy. They shared equally in the King Edward and Gas company.

SEVENTEEN years ago Jack Brower's rink won the Visitors' final in the Edmonton bonspiel after a playoff with Joe Heartwell of Rosetown. Naturally Jack was more than a little pleased Saturday night when by a strong finish the Innisfree entry for which he acted as skipper was able to eke out a 9-7 decision.

And by a coincidence it was a Saskatchewan rink which turned out second best again this year. J. N. Batey and his Macklin curlers led for a considerable part of the route, but the Brower brothers, Ted Olson and R. H. Hanna came through in the clinch.

And by the way, this same Jack Brower should know his way from hack to hack reasonably well, for in addition to being a consistant bonspiel winner in Saskatchewan for the past 20 odd years, the Langham curler has been a regular competed in the Macdonald Brier Dominion playoff. In 1938 he played third for Dr. Humphries' Prince Albert rink, Saskatchewan representatives in the final and 1939 made the trip east again, being third for George Dunbar's Kinley quartet.

BASKETBALL PLAYOFF

It would appear that the reaction to the use of neutral rooks in the Senior Basketball League title are billed for tomorrow night. Latter Day Saints and Varsity will be the attraction for the third playoff game in the U.S. Army Engineers and Y.M.C.A. playing in the second.

Canadians and E.A.C. now deadlocked for the top rung in the City Junior Hockey League, will settle the leadership problem temporarily at least on Wednesday night when they are scheduled to meet again in the Arena Blocks loop.

Getliffe Nets Five Counters Against Boston

MONTREAL, Feb. 8.—(CP)—Coach Dick Irvin uncovered a new power Saturday night when he set Ray Getliffe alongside Elmer Lach and Joe Benoit in place of Toe Blake.

Getliffe's feat of five goals and one assist equalled the record set years ago by Pit Lepine, also of the Canadiens, but he still is one point short of Max Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks who has collected seven points in a game, four goals and three assists.

Canadian Juniors Triumph 5-3 Over No. 3 "M" Depot

The Canadians came from behind Saturday night to win a City Junior Hockey League game played at the 119 street rink from No. 3 "M" Depot 5-3. The result forced a tie between the Canadians and the Edmonton Athletic Club for the league leadership, each having 11 points.

"Due to the high wind that sprang up during the game the players were unable to produce the usual brand of hockey they have been showing throughout the season. The last two periods were fairly ragged.

Ken Cox, one of the outstanding forwards on the Canadian team again led his club to victory with two goals along with Frank Baer, Glen Gray and Jock Tennant who accounted for the remaining three.

Play went smooth until 7:18 of the first period when Tennant was waved to the penalty box and just 14 seconds later Vic Kuzyk was also sent off to leave the Canadians two men short. With R.C.A.F. taking advantage of this privilege they put on the pressure and at 9:00 minutes took the lead when Darey Duncan slapped in a pass from Don Douglas. Two minutes afterwards "Brick" Edmunds drove a hard long shot past Billy Lancaster on a relay from Guest to make it 2-0 for the "M" Depot squad.

About two minutes from the end of the first canto Don Dewar picked up the puck in his own zone carried it into Air Force territory and slipped it to Ken Cox who went in to count the first Canadian goal.

The winners tied it up shortly after the opening whistle in the second 20 minutes with another tally by Ken Cox on a neat pass from Jim Fleming. They then proceeded to take over the lead with a goal by Frank Baer on a lone effort near the end of the period.

The Canadians went farther ahead in the last session with two more goals, the first by Glen Gray on a rebound off goalie Bill McLennan's pads at 7:40 with Jim Fleming getting the assist and the second was drove in past the Air Force goalie by Jock Tennant on a relay from Earl Chisholm while Fleming of the R.C.A.F. was serving a misconduct penalty.

The Canadians, playing shorthanded in the final seconds made it 5-3 with a counter by Cull on an assist by Lloyd Bell. Cull were unable to equal the Canadian lead.

Fast Times Set By Runners at Millrose Games

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Hugh Short of Georgetown University matched the world record for 600 yards and Earl Mitchell, Indiana senior, skyrocketed out of third place to take the classic Wanamaker mile as the Millrose games opened the indoor track and field season at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

Before a crowd of 15,000 Short whipped Michigan's Robert Ufer by five yards in 1:10.2—the standard established by the late John Borican in 1941.

Hardly had the little Georgetown runner hung up his mark than along came Mitchell to upset the highly-regarded Gil Dodds. Boston divinity student, in the fast time of 4:08.6.

Dodds, caught in 4:08.9, was no match for the Indianan in the final drive but he pulled away from Dixon, who was clocked in 4:10.6.

Little Greg Rice and Cornelius Warmerdam, track's two most consistent performers, had no trouble winning their specialties. Rice pulled away from Ollie Hunter of Notre Dame in the last 2½ laps to win the two miles by 80 yards and chalk up his 57th successive triumph. He was clocked in the comparatively good time of 9:02.2.

Warmerdam, with little opposition, cleared the 15-foot bar for the 29th time in taking the pole vault at 15 feet 1¼ inches.

Arsenal Now Champions Of South English Soccer

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(CP Cable)—Arsenal gained the championship of the English Football League's southern section Sunday by blanking Crystal Palace 9-0. This win placed Arsenal seven points ahead of the second-place Tottenham Hotspurs who now cannot overtake the leaders.

It is the second title in two years for Gunners who won last year when the league was confined to London and district teams. Arsenal now will shoot for the league cup.

Lovells Athletic, a minor club admitted to league competition this season only because there were insufficient senior teams, defeated Swansea 9-0 and gained first place in the qualifying competition for the northern division cup.

Sharing top place but with poorer goal averages are Manchester United Rochdale. Rochdale beat Mury 3-2 Saturday. The day's best crowd, 70,000, saw Sheffield United upset the Wednesday 3-1 in another feature game.

In the southern Scottish league, Rangers scored in the last minute to tie Hearts 1-1. Hibernians and Morton, sharing second place behind Rangers, gained 3-2 victories over St. Mirren and Hamilton respectively. Rangers, in the Northeastern League leaders, scored an easy 4-1 win over Dunfermline.

Government Makes Request That Kentucky Be Cancelled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The United States government requested officially Saturday that the Kentucky Derby not be run this year. If the request is complied with, it would represent the first break in the holding of the annual turf classic, in war or peace, since the first race was run in 1875.

Entry blanks have been mailed for this year's 69th running and Col. Matt Winn of Churchill Downs had said previously that it would be held to maintain the tradition even if no one attended.

In Chicago, Col. Winn, 81-year-old dean of American racing, said he was "very much surprised" inasmuch as the Downs had expected to preserve the traditional race as a local, "street car" attraction, if necessary.

"I have not received the government's request," he said, "and until I do so, I do not feel at liberty to reply to it. This is a serious proposition and requires a lot of thought because I am not the only one to settle a thing like this. I am very much surprised."

Winn, an attendant at all of the 68 derbies, has personally supervised the last 40 of them as head of Churchill Downs.

The recommendation against the running of the derby was issued by Joseph B. Eastman, transportation director, with a view to conserving transportation. In this it differed from the request previously made by William M. Jeffers, rubber administrator, that state governors cancel race meetings at tracks which can be reached only by motor. Jeffers' request was aimed at conserving rubber.

Churchill Downs, scene of the derby, is at Louisville and city officials there had generally expected that the race would be permitted with Louisville residents comprising most of the spectators.

Because of the heavy demand on railroads and inter-city buses for troop movements and other essential traffic, Eastman said in a statement, "it would be better from a transportation standpoint if the Kentucky Derby were not run this year."

"If it is held," Eastman added, "the O.D.T. will not permit the operation of special trains, extra sections or chartered buses or cars. . . ."

singleton in the second, but the Granite finalists took two in the third and after the Manahans chalked up one in the fourth added pairs in both fifth and sixth and one more in the seventh to raise the score to 10-2.

Manahan's last score was another single in the eighth and Robertson's three in the ninth and one more in the tenth finished the game.

Score by ends:

Robertson	302	022	103	1—14
Manahan	010	100	010	0— 2

NORTH WEST FINAL

Duncan of Grande Prairie led Robertson of the Granite in the North West final at the Royal Saturday night right up to the eleventh end and two in the last end beat him.

The northern rink took a lead of two in the first and made it 5-3 in the third, 6-2 in the fourth and were still up 7-5 after Robertson scored a pair in the sixth and one in the seventh. The count was 8-6 at the tenth and Robertson squared the game at 8-8 in the eleventh.

Duncan appeared to have a win coming up in the twelfth, after carefully nursing a shot rock almost from the start of the end. With the counting none well protected by a guard midway between the hog line and the house, the skip took a chance and asked his third for an out-turn guard as additional security. The rock, however, nudged the first guard to the side sufficiently to let Skip Robertson through to dislodge the shot rock.

Duncan was slightly short with an attempted draw and when Robertson put on a perfect guard the ball game was over.

Score by ends:

Duncan	203	010	010	100— 8
Robertson	010	102	101	022—10

EDMONTON CITY DAIRY

Parm Robarts and his Granite curlers took a long time to get going in the City Dairy final against the W.E.T.P. rink skipped by Vince Slavik of Viking, but 12 counters piled up in the last six ends were sufficient to give a 14-9 victory.

W.E.T.P. grabbed off five to start with, led 6-1 at the end of the third and 7-2 at the fifth. Two threes a four, and a two in the sixth, seventh, ninth and tenth ends as against two singles by Slavik's men finished the game at the eleventh.

GAS CO. EVENT

The final in the Gas Company event played at the Alberta Ave. rink between Kemp of the Royal and Campbell of Alberta Ave., was tied five times.

Kemp counted first, then Campbell tied it up and got two more singles in the fourth and fifth after Kemp counted two in the third to leave the score 3-3. It was 4-4 at the end of the eighth and 6-6 at the ninth.

Kemp collected a four on the tenth, but Campbell came up with two successive pairs to knot the count at 10-10 and force the extra end where he took a single to win out.

Score by ends:

Campbell	010	111	002	022	1—11
Kemp	102	000	120	400	0—10

JACKSON BROS. EVENT

Bob Edwards skipped his Alberta Ave. rink to a 12-8 win over F. J. Wolfe's Royal at the Granite on Saturday night, three big ends accounting for 10 points.

Wolfe started with one, but Edwards made three in the second, only to have the Royal rink reply with the same number in the third.

Edwards got another cluster of three in the fourth and the first blank end to occur in any final landed along in the fifth. Edwards took one in the sixth and Wolfe came back with a singleton and a pair to leave the score 7-7 at the eighth.

Four in the ninth really settled the matter, each adding one more thereafter.

Score by ends:

Wolfe	103	000	120	10— 8
Edwards	030	201	004	01—12

VISITORS FINAL

Jack Brower had a real fight on his hands Saturday night at the Royal with Batey of Macklin in the Visitors final, the first prize for which was four sets of curling rocks.

The Innisfree rink was up 3-0 in the first two ends and led 4-2 at the fifth. Successive pairs in the next two sent Batey ahead 6-4 and the Macklin boys still were up 7-6 at the tenth.

Brower, however, came up with three in the last two ends to finish on top 9-7.

Score by ends:

Batey	001	102	201	000—7
Brower	210	010	010	121—9

EDMONTON MOTORS (City)

After disposing of Robarts of the Granite 10-7 in the semi-final yesterday afternoon, Manahan went on to take his second event of the bonspiel when he defeated Woodin of the Granite 11-8 in the final at the Royal last night.

Manahan scored in nine of the 12 ends, but a four by Woodin in the second gave the Granite curlers a lead of two and they were up 5-2 at the end of the fourth.

Manahan with successive singletons drew even at the half-way mark, led 9-5 at the ninth. Woodin got one back in the tenth, but Manahan replied with a pair in the eleventh.

Generals See Anti-Tank Fire Of Canadians

By WILLIAM STEWART

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 8.—(CP)—Gen. Sir Bernard Paget, commander of Britain's home armies, got a glimpse of the anti-tank firepower of the Canadian army Saturday, when gunners from three artillery and one infantry regiment put their weapons through their paces against targets moving across sloping ranges in southern England.

Gen. Paget was accompanied by Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian army, Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, Canadian chief of staff, and other officers and civilians who stood in deep mud to witness the demonstration.

WESTERN UNIT

Gun crews performing for the British commander-in-chief were drawn from a field regiment commanded by a Saskatoon Lieutenant-Colonel, an anti-tank regiment commanded by a Lieutenant-Colonel from Regina, a light anti-aircraft regiment commanded by a Lieutenant-Colonel from Calgary and the Princess Patricia's Canadian light infantry, under a Medicine Hat Lieutenant-Colonel.

Infantry men from a P.P.C.L.I. anti-tank platoon opened the demonstration when their 2-pound wicked little two-pounders into action against targets sliding at tank speed across a slope half a mile away.

The party then moved on to a neighboring range where a detachment of the light anti-aircraft unit their Bofors guns to work against similar targets. Bright red tracers showed the Bofors' devastating effect when employed as an anti-tank weapon.

SMALL RANGE

On the same range while Gen. Paget and Canadian officers stood a few yards behind, new six-pounders operated by officers of the anti-tank regiment literally blasted to pieces already riddled by the Bofors. Lorries raced up to the gun position, swung away, and their places were taken by 25-pounders manned by gunners of the field regiment who displayed high accuracy, scoring repeated direct hits on mock tanks.

Expect House To Deal With Finance Bills

OTTAWA, Feb. 8. — (CP) — Some of the more important financial legislation of the year is expected to come before the House of Commons this week with the debate on the speech from the throne still in progress.

Finance Minister Ilsley is believed anxious to get two measures before the house, a bill dealing with the allocation of munitions and a measure which will govern Canada's financial transactions with the United Kingdom and replace the $1,000,000,000 gift bill of last session.

IMPORTANT REASONS

Mr. Ilsley told the house earlier in the session there were important reasons why the war appropriations bill, the measure which authorizes all war expenditures for 1942-44, and a supplementary bill for 1942-43, should be introduced at an early date.

If the debate on the throne speech ends within a week, it is likely those measures will be taken up then. If it shows signs of being more protracted the government may ask that it be adjourned.

Canada's financial relations with the United Kingdom may be put on a new basis under the legislation to be brought down. Last year's $1,000,000,000 gift has been expended, practically all in the purchase of goods, munitions and food in Canada. It amounted to the supplying of Canadian dollars to meet United Kingdom purchases here.

Yanks Again Blast Bridge in Burma

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 8.—(AP)—American bombers again pounded the Myitnge bridge near Mandalay, important link of Japanese communications in Burma, as the enemy attempted to repair damage from previous raids, a United States air force communique announced Saturday.

"Many direct hits with small calibre bombs and one direct hit and near misses with bombs of larger calibre were reported from the operations," the communique stated.

"Japanese determination to restore this bridge to use indicates that severance of his communications between Rangoon and Mandalay is causing embarrassment to his military operations."

No aircraft greater protection for the bridge, spanning the Irrawaddy below Mandalay, the Japanese were reported to have brought anti-aircraft defence units from other theatres.

U.S. bombers, escorted by fighter planes, also attacked railway targets in northern Burma.

Murder Is Charged In Indian's Death

LINDSAY, Ont., Feb. 8—(CP)—Howard McKinnis, 34, Lindsay, was arrested here early yesterday on a charge of murder in connection with the death Saturday night of William Howard, Indian, fatally shot as he sat in his house. Police said the shooting followed an argument between McGinnis and Howard over Mrs. Catherine Coursey, a native of Peterborough, Ont., who is being held as a material witness.

Deadly Duty: How Canadians Clear Seas of Mines

Canadian seamen court death daily to clear the Atlantic coast of mines sowed by U-boats. Here two members of the mine disposal squad gingerly capture one of the deadly spheres, then strip off its detonators and open the TNT compartments to set it affire.

Paper Declares Beef Rationing Here by March

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(CP)—The Evening Telegram said Saturday it had been "reliably informed" that rationing of beef would start in Canada either March 1 or March 6, with the latter being the most probable date. The story said also that beef rationing will start in the United States Feb. 20, with the weekly limit 40 ounces a person and that the Canadian limit would probably be about the same.

Guilty Verdict Is Returned in Fraud Hearing

MONTREAL, Feb. 8—(CP)—A court of King's Bench jury returned a verdict of "guilty" Saturday in the case of four men charged with conspiring to defraud the federal government and three companies of $200,000 in connection with war sub-contracts for the munitions department.

The jury, returning the verdict after an hour's deliberation, said through a spokesman that "we find all four guilty. The men are Patrick Lynch, president and general manager of Engine Works and Trading Incorporated; his son, Donald, former production manager; Patrick Noonan, paymaster; and Daniel Taugher, clerk.

TO BE SENTENCED

The verdict was announced in a packed, hushed court, which heard Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure say that he would sentence the men Feb. 16. Shortly afterwards, Defence Counsel John Ahern, K.C., told newspapermen that he will institute proceedings Monday to appeal the jury's decision.

The prisoners showed little outward emotion when the verdict was announced, but perspiration covered their faces.

The jury withdrew at 3:47 p.m., C.D.T., after hearing the instructions of Mr. Justice Lazure and after the attorneys had completed their addresses. They brought in their verdict an hour and four minutes later.

Mr. Justice Lazure, speaking after R. L. Calder, K.C., defence counsel for Noon and Taugher, had completed his address to the jury, declined the various elements of conspiracy and told the jurors the various verdict they could return.

He said that the men are charged "with conspiring to defraud by deceit, falsehood and by other fraudulent means the government of Canada, three companies and the community as a whole."

REVIEWS EVIDENCE

In summing up the evidence presented by the crown and the defence and said that "I might close my remarks as to facts with two or three questions. Does the evidence satisfy you beyond any reasonable doubt that machinations of different kinds, all slightly varied in form of figures, false entries or otherwise, are you satisfied that this kind of deceitful falsehoods have been practised with a fraudulent intent by the accused or not? If not, well, they are not guilty; if you come to the conclusion that these irregularities were the result of honest mistakes or errors done in good faith and due to the incompetency of the staff and the very large number of entries, as explained by the defence counsels, again they are not guilty.

United States Will Erect Military Hospital in City

Council Asked to Lease Thirty-Nine Acre Site On Hudson's Bay Reserve

Two requests from the United States government in connection with war projects in the city and the northland will be considered by Edmonton's city council at a meeting to be held on Monday night.

Easement through the city for telephone and telegraph lines is sought in one request, and the leasing of land on the Hudson's Bay reserve for the erection of a temporary military hospital is the other. Acceptance of both requests is recommended by the city commissioners.

The telephone and telegraph easement is being asked in connection with lines being built from Edmonton to Fairbanks, Alaska. This system will be built along the various railroad rights of way and over private property to Dawson Creek, B.C., and then continue along the Alaska highway to Fairbanks.

MEETS REQUIREMENTS

The city has the assurance of the Alberta Government Telephones that the construction of the line along city property has been in accordance with all requirements of the city authorities. The line is located in such a way as not to interfere with city construction. All costs of construction, maintenance and operation will be borne by the United States government.

The commissioners recommended that approval be given to the request, and that they be

Getting Around

Jack DeLong

A few days ago we talked with Sir Hubert Wilkins about his plan for universal weather forecasting. The Wilkins plan is, of course, a plan for long range weather forecasting. It might take a century, or more, to reap the final fruits of such a plan, which would make possible planning the world's food supply and clothing needs a whole year in advance.

But close-range weather forecasting is not a century away. Few people possibly realize with what uncanny accuracy the weather may now be predicted as a result of the great increase in the number and efficiency of meteorological stations.

This development has paralleled the unprecedented aerial expansion of the last few years, since the start of the present war, in particular. Accurate weather forecasting is the safety valve of modern air travel.

As more and more air routes open up, more and more meteorological stations are put in opera-

Greatest Air-Freighting Contract in History

At the top above is shown one of two unique shipments. Workmen are loading one of the oxen aboard a plane. Oxen were shipped later without being roped and doped. In the picture below is one of the horses being placed aboard the plane. The machine is the huge all metal Junkers that was on transport work north of Edmonton for several summers.

Widely-Known Resident Dies: 90 Years Old

A resident of Edmonton for the last 25 years, Mrs. Sarah Louisa Jackson, wife of William S. Jackson, died Sunday at the residence of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. E. Evans, Stony Plain road. Mrs. Jackson, who was in her 90th year at the time of her death, had made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Evans since she first came to Edmonton.

Mrs. Jackson was a native of Whitby, Ont., and on her marriage to Mr. Jackson went to live in Toronto. During her life in Toronto she moved in educational circles, as her husband was master of classics at Upper Canada College, at its old location on King street W. Later he was on the faculty of the new college at Deer Park, where he was dean of residence.

Mrs. Jackson, who was well-known in the city, was an active member of the Edmonton Golf and Country Club and was a member of Christ Church Anglican.

To survive her Mrs. Jackson leaves her husband, now living in London, Eng., Mrs. Evans, her daughter, and one sister, Mrs. E. D. Watson.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at 2 p.m. in Christ church, with the rector, the Rev. E. S. Otley, officiating.

Arrangements are in the hands of Howard and McBride, funeral directors.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

A U.S. news commentator recently suggested possible friction between North America and Soviet Russia after the war. He said the Soviets might try to expand their influence across the narrow Bering Straits, where Siberia nearly touches North America. Do you think the people of North America have anything to fear from Russia in the future?

THE ANSWERS

J. PATTERSON, student: I am not a Communist but I think the suggestion absurd. With the greatest national land mass in the world still relatively undeveloped, Russia just naturally doesn't require any more land. She is exactly like the Americas in this respect. Sovie. Russia will require at least half a century to develop her own great resources. When she has done that she will not be in need of other lands.

W. HALE, district farmer: There are three world powers that because of their own inherent strength of resources do not need to fight for more territory. They are Great Britain, the United States and Soviet Russia. Friendship and understanding among these powers will insure lasting peace. The idea that Russia may some day attack America is silly, in just the same way as the suggestion that the U.S. or British would want to attack Russia.

* * *

C. McNIVEN, former school teacher: Russia will likely emerge as the greatest power in either Europe or Asia, but fortunately for the rest of the world Russia will have no need for more territory or resources. America has nothing to fear from Russia, in my opinion.

4,000 Tons of Freight Carried By Plane to New Power Project

Construction of Canada's mightiest hydro-electric power plants at Shipshaw, Quebec, brought the airplane into its own as a medium of transport. During the early days of construction on the new power system that will eventually cause more than 2,000,000 horse power of electrical energy to flow to Canadian heavy industry, the largest single air-freighting contract in history was carried out by machines now operated by Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

And the weirdest assortment of air cargo ever handled was carried by eight planes that shuttled steadily to the Lake St. John district. The whole job was done on floats and skis and the large all-metal Junkers plane, that once freighted out of Edmonton, was in the star role.

It was familiarly known to Edmonton residents as the flying box car.

More than 4,000 tons of supplies were moved by air, and this truly gigantic job was completed without mishap well ahead of schedule. The work began in August, 1940. At that time the airplane was the only medium of transport into the rugged area, selected for the huge electric development.

TRACTORS CARRIED

Transported by air were three tractors, spare tractor engines, air compressors, a diesel engine electric generating plant, a steam shovel and narrow gauge dump cars.

Then there were water pumps galore, outboard motors and personnel for the power project.

The strangest cargoes of all, however, were the eight live horses and four oxen.

When the first horse to be taken aloft, developed a serious case of airsickness and kicked a goodsized hole in the bottom of the plane, stern precautions had to be taken with the remaining horses. A veterinarian gave each horse a "sleeping pill" and then the animal was roped to a platform and loaded aboard. The "vet" accompanied the animal to the landing field and if he showed signs of coming to on the way he got another pill.

OX AS CARGO

Although the first ox to be carried was handled in a similar manner, it was an unnecessary precaution. It was found that oxen are good air travellers. As long as they have lots of hay they take the plane ride right in their stride.

In addition to the freighting, aerial surveys were made of the area of the power site for years before the construction work started. This job will also stand as one of the most remarkable accomplishments of Canadian aviation. The contour maps made from these aerial surveys were found to be amazingly accurate in every detail. This greatly simplified the work of the engineers.

ALL IN SECRECY

All work was carried out in the greatest secrecy and announcement of the enormous development was made only a week ago by the Canadian cabinet.

Four Private Bills Planned Next Session

Deadline for receipt of private bills for the legislative session which opens on Feb. 18, was Monday. After Feb. 8 all applicants with private bills for presentation to the session are penalized. Only four applications have been presented, stated R. A. Andison, clerk of the assembly.

The city of Calgary seeks amendments to its charter, allowing the council to undertake, complete, maintain and operate a housing scheme, under authority of the 1938 National Housing Act. Also requested are powers permitting Calgary to establish an ARP committee, and to impose penalties for any infractions of ARP regulations by citizens.

The Calgary and Southwestern Railway Company asks for an extension of time to construct its railroad, and the Presbyterian Church requests passing of an act relating to powers and rights of its board of trustees and relating to church properties in Alberta.

SEEKS AMENDMENTS

The city of Edmonton requests a charter amendment, allowing levies to be collected for post-war public works, the levies to be accumulated in a fund until needed; another amendment permitting the city to transfer to general revenue accounts, all unclaimed light and water deposits; and a third, allowing Edmonton to carry its own fire and other insurance risk, and to create a fund for such purposes.

All applications for private bills must be accompanied by a deposit of $200 for expenses incurred. Penalties for tardiness start at $5 a day, up to the day the session opens, and range up to $15 a day for bills more than ten days late, plus foregoing charges.

Garage Damaged In Morning Fire

A 4 a.m. fire call to the South Side, Sunday, proved to be in a garage of Louis Hamulas' Gateway Service Station, 5021 104 street.

According to Hamulas, he had left the garage about five minutes and on his return found a tin of coal oil used for washing grease from his hands on fire. The fire also had spread to the south wall.

Hamulas employed a fire extinguisher before he saw fire still burning between the walls, and called the fire department.

Boy Scouts Association Hears Splendid Reports Of Recent Activities

Reduction of 37 per cent in the total membership of the Alberta Boy Scouts Association was due largely to the number of leaders, Rovers and older Scouts who have joined the armed forces, Evan McCormack, Dominion field commissioner, reported at the annual meeting of the association held Saturday in the Macdonald hotel. The president, W. J. Dick, was in the chair.

Before the opening His Honor, Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen gave a brief address in which he paid tribute to the work which the scout association is doing. No movement is greater in its ideals or its results, he stated, and he thanked most heartily those who were working in scouting.

If the better day that is coming, Ills Honor stated, that he was looking forward to scouting as an outstanding if not the leading boys movement in Canada.

Although the numbers are reduced there is an improvement in the standard of scouting in the province, Mr. McCormick stated in his report. The percentage of boys receiving second class, first class and King's scout badges and the number of proficiency badges earned was higher than at any time during the last three years.

WAR SERVICES

War services occupied much of the scouts and cubs time during the past year, Mr. McCormick stated. Among their activities were the collection of medicine bottles, and vegetable seeds for Great Britain in addition to assistance in salvage campaigns.

The sum of $621.03 was collected during 1942 for the "Chins Up" fund to aid scouts who have been working under blitz conditions in Great Britain.

Up to the present time, the sum of $1,028.99 had been collected in the province and more than $30,000 for the whole Dominion.

Appreciation was paid by Mr. McCormick to the Scout masters who have been carrying on although many of them are doing extra work such as training with reserve army units or various civilian defence organizations.

TOTAL RECEIPTS

Financial reports showed that total receipts of the Scout association amounted to $8,566.55, while a

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Women's Place in Home Altered After War

When Johnny Doughboy Comes Marching Home He May Not be Returning to the Old-Fashioned Fireside

One of the unforeseen results of the war will be that it is going to change the relationship of men and women to each other. It causes one to wonder if it will precipitate a battle of the sexes that will make the present conflict seem as innocuous as a pink tea, and that will make even the hardiest soldier wish that he were fighting the Huns or the Japs instead of the Little Woman.

For when Johnny comes marching home he is going to find women so changed that he will hardly know his own mother, to say nothing of his wife, or the girl friend. They will be so different that they will seem almost to belong to a new species of fauna. Gone will be the baby dolls, and the clinging vines, and the timid fawns, and the Dumb Doras, and the pretty little nitwits, and all the oh-you-wonderful-mans with which he was familiar, and with whom he knew how to deal. In their places will be a sturdy and competent bunch of femmes who have grabbed his pants and his job and his pay-envelope while he was away, and who aren't asking any man what makes the wheels go around. They are telling him.

CHIEF ATTRACTION

Now you don't have to be a prophetess, who is the seventh daughter of a seventh daughter and born in a caul, to foresee that this new attitude of women isn't going to be popular with Johnny. For one of the main attractions that women always had for men has been ministering to their inferiority complex. Being poor, little, weak, helpless creatures who couldn't stand alone and who had to have some strong arm on which to lean. Making women feel the man was superior. And that is why the little cuties, without two lobes to their brains, have always been able to marry* in circles around the high-browed college graduates.

But the war has dispelled this myth of the great, big, masculine YOU and the poor, little, feminine ME. Women have found out that they aren't as dumb as they thought they were, and that it doesn't take any more genius to work out a blue print than it does a cut paper pattern, nor any more skill to sew on airplane wings than it does to make a dress, and that any woman who can run a household budget and make one dollar do the work of five could also run the United States Treasury if she got a chance. So that is going to put an awful dent in the little tin god pose of men.

Also, it is going to play heck with the marriage statistics. For what man is going to want a wife who is a better riveter than he is and who draws down a fatter pay envelope? Love doesn't flourish on the likeness between a man and woman. It is the difference be-tween them that does the trick.

ECONOMIC BARRIERS

Then there is the matter of financial independence that women have achieved that is going to make being a husband a lot more diplomatic job than it has ever been heretofore. When a woman had no money of her own and knew no trade by which she could earn a dollar, she had to take whatever sort of treatment the man to whom she was married accorded her. She dared not part with her meal ticket. But it is a different story now when she is on her own feet and can supply her own bread and butter and cake. She takes no back talk from the grouch, or the tight-wad, or the tyrant to whom she is wedded. She indulges herself in the luxury of a divorce.

But the blackout in this new order of things, which we are to have after the war and which according to the optimists will make the world a better place to live in, will come when we settle down to everyday living and confront the home proposition. Is the old-fashioned home as we knew it to go into the discard along with the wonderful one-horse shay and bustles and other outmoded articles and customs? Are we to be born in a maternity ward, reared in schools and camps, married in a church and buried from a mortuary without ever knowing what a real home is like?

NO MARCHING "HOME" FOR JOHNNY DOUGHBOY

Perish the thought! Yet it takes a woman in a house to make a home, a woman who puts her heart and her soul in it and who gives to it her time and her thought and her love. Servants can't make a home, no matter how efficient they are. Nor can a woman make a home whose major interests and ambitions are centred on her job, and who gives to it only a fraction of her time and all of her nerves and irritability. But how many women who have tasted blood by earning big salaries are going to want to go back to the 'chores' of domesticity, without even a servant's wages?

> It is going to be a terrible blow to Johnny, who all through the war dreamed of his own home and home cooking, to discover that his wife is wedded to her job even more than she is to him, and that he has to spend his life in hotels and boarding houses and eating in cafeterias.

And as for babies, maybe the stork will just go out of business altogether. Or we will get them from the mail order houses, then turn them over to child experts to rear, and mothers will take their place in the museums along with the other prehistoric animals.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "Let's put the box of candy out of sight so neither one of us will be tempted to eat any more. shall we?"

Daughter: Yes, and lock the drawer, too, Mother."

Mother: "Did you take some of my candy after I told you not to?"

Daughter: "I only took one piece."

Mother: "I knew you would."

It is unfair to put greater temptation in a child's way than he has yet developed the self-control to withstand.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

This is the first of a series of articles which will help you to clarify the interpretation of some of the laws of bridge.

In the hand shown, North's bid of four no trumps was the Blackwood convention, calling on South to show his aces. North wanted to know whether South held the ace of clubs or the king of hearts besides the ace and king of spades.

to decide whether to bid the small grand slam. South responded "five diamonds." West passed, and at about the same time South said, "I mean five hearts." Five diamonds in the Blackwood system shows one ace; five hearts shows two aces.

East and West called attention to the fact that South had made two bids, the second being a bid out of rotation. The dealer was called and ruled, under the law on the bid out of rotation, that the five-heart bid was void and North was barred from the auction by South's protest. East passed and South was left in five diamonds, at which he was set.

The case was appealed up to the National Laws Commission. That body issued a ruling applicable to many such situations that grow out of errors in the use of slam conventions. The question of law is to permit a player, if his partner is to be barred for the rest of the auction, to have free choice of his call. This intention is shown in the law on misnomer and on insufficient bids. A bidder should not be compelled to play a fue bid, in a suit which his side does not bid, through a legalistic interpretation. In this case, he should have been allowed to substitute any other sufficient bid that he wished for his side of five diamonds and five hearts. In other words, he could return to spades or clubs, but must make the decision with no further help from North.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

A mother's ingenuity must be put to the test to make up games, when no games exist, to teach children different types of desirable conduct.

We know well enough that children do not take kindly to being made to stay either quiet or motionless, but the intervention of childish health is an enormous capacity for activity. So games which make it fun and a sort of test to be motionless, have distinct advantages.

Mrs. F. S. who writes that she used to be an entertainer for children explains: "In the past, and now, I have made a habit of playing a game called, 'Barber's Chair.'

"I am the barber. When I close my eyes the children can move about or shake their heads, but when I open my eyes and say, 'Barber's Chair' then they must perfectly still with heads erect. It is a variation of the old 'statue' game.

"We sing this after we play,

"Sitting in a barber's chair
"Is always so much fun.
"Snap, snap, snap—snip, snip, snip,
"The barber's work is done.

"At the moment I am playing something like this with my 14-months-old grandson. I was grateful for the recent article you had on 'hair-clipping' instead of 'haircutting'.

"This is something concrete for mothers to try out on their needing-a-haircut children.

Mrs. B.M.: After the baby has passed beyond the stage for diluted formulas she can have 36 ounces of evaporated milk, plus 16 of boiled water which is the equivalent of 32 ounces of fresh milk. I feel that, as you surmised, your baby is being very much overfed. I am glad to be sure that when you cut down to the proper levels for the milk feeding she won't be so set against the cereal. Offer this first at the meal—one teaspoon to start—and finish with the bottled formula.

If you can get bananas, a ripe, mashed banana (one teaspoon to start) can take the place of the cereal. She might like those best.

The pictures are fine, especially if they are strained and you do not omit orange juice. Prunes do not take the place of orange juice but can supplement them, especially if there is some tendency to constipation. Are you adding sugar to the milk formula? You should. That is another aid to relieve constipation.

Please send me a self-addressed and 3-cent stamped envelope and I shall be happy to send you the leaflets, "Feeding From Two to Nine Months" and "Sweet Milk Formulas" These answer all you, queries about how and when to increase the diet.

TOWEL ABSORBENCY

Contrary to a somewhat widely held opinion, colored bath towels have the same absorbency as white ones of similar quality. According to authorities in the laundry division of National Research Council, dye does not affect absorbency. Towelling made from yarns not thoroughly scoured in the manufacturing process will prove more absorbent after several laundrings.

Non-Ration Meats Can Be Delicious

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

It's probably not the non-rationed meats your family objects to, but the monotonous way you prepare them. Here are some new recipes to add delicious interest to your wartime menus.

RAGOUT OF LAMB KIDNEYS
(Serves 4)

Six lamb or veal kidneys, ¼ cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, bacon drippings, 1½ cups hot water, ½ medium onion, sliced, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon cold water, 1 tablespoon flour, 2¼ cups cooked white rice (¾ cup, uncooked).

Split kidneys; remove skin, fat and lubes. Roll in combined flour, salt and pepper. Brown in hot bacon drippings. Add hot water, onion and mustard; simmer 10 minutes. Make a smooth paste of cold water and flour and stir into mixture; cook until thickened. Serve over hot rice.

BAKED LAMB HEARTS WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE
(Serves 4)

Four lamb hearts, bacon drippings, 2½ cups boiling water, ½ pound mushrooms, 4 tablespoons fat, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt.

Cut away arteries and veins from hearts, wash well. Brown in bacon drippings. Place in baking pan and add boiling water. Cover and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., about 2½ hours or until tender. One-half hour before removing hearts from oven add the washed and sliced mushrooms. Remove hearts to platter and keep hot. Cream fat, flour and salt together; add to mushrooms and heart liquor; mix well and cook; stirring constantly until smooth and thickened. Pour over hearts and serve.

NEW ICEBOX

Good news for the housekeeper whose refrigerator is too badly worn for use is a new icebox made almost entirely of a pressed wood material, the most popular model requiring only eight pounds of steel. The box is said to use only a hundred pounds of ice per week, and to maintain an even temperature of about 46 degrees. The wood construction is very high insulating value, is easily cleaned and produces no condensation on the outside of the refrigerator.

Worry, fear and nervous tension have caused all sorts of diseases, from stomach ulcers to falling hair, physicians say. And Dr. Wm. Becker, University of Chicago dermatologist, says that even athlete's foot may be caused by nervous exhaustion and inability to relax. Modern high-pressure living may not cause any more nervous tension than the old days of the horse and buggy, for, even then, people panicked easily, but relaxation should include training in relaxation and general mental hygiene.

Mozart's Life Portrayed in Musical Play

One of the most ambitious and expansive programs ever given in its regular season's series by the Women's Musical Club was that of Saturday afternoon at the Masonic Temple, when "Mozart Miniatures" was presented. This was a musical play, complete with cast, supporting orchestra, and special costumes and scenery, the whole occupying an hour and a half playing time. The play was written by Pauline Morrish and Alan Fraser of Calgary, the former coming here specially for the occasion. There were four scenes, and the play depicted various activities in the colorful, industrious and interesting career of the Salzburg master.

Music was drawn from the wealth of material left by the composer.

The play was an admirable effort to give an insight into the life and times of the mighty man. The authors did not overlook their opportunities for comedy, and there was sufficient to provide contrast for the more serious moments.

DELIGHTFUL TOUCHES

There were many delightful touches and one that will be long remembered for its human interest was that which brought Scene 2 to an end, with Constanze telling Mozart fairy stories, while he scored the overture to "Don Giovanni" the ideas of which ran through his mind more rapidly than he could commit them to paper.

The cast was first class and included several leading members of the Edmonton Civic Opera Society, who acted and sang with the finesse and polish expected. It was an all-star cast with each and every one contributing to the performance's success.

Thus great credit goes to Noreen Bristow as Constanze, Betty Markle as Josepha; Laurier Picard as Mozart; Vernice Nadeau as Caterina Micell; John Markle as Luigi Busi; Marie Atkinson as a landlady; Rev. Father Leo Green as Michael Kelly; Jean Braschuk as Sophie; Paul Guy as a stranger and Joseph Nadeau as Sussmayr.

Father Green and Mr. Nadeau combined with Arthur Broder and Wexford Johnston to form a quartet with Mrs. B. T. Olson at the organ.

TOWER OF STRENGTH

Mrs. J. R. Carmichael conducted, giving an authoritative reading of the music, buoying up the soloists and wielding cast and orchestra into a unified whole. Her dynamic personality was reflected in the artistic results on both the stage and in the orchestra pit. It was a happy choice to have her at the helm.

John Rule, who was responsible for the staging, has seldom given a better production. He caught the atmosphere of the times. He thoroughly absorbed the spirit of Mozart and his times and throughout the entire play, it was evident that he had spared no effort to make this miniature as near-perfect as possible. His directional capacity was given as completely as though it were a major production at the Empire.

In addition to the capable and efficient cast, the following artists who made up the tonally and technically efficient orchestra, merit warm commendation:

Violins, Hazel Heckleman, Winifred Tait, Zonia Lazarowich, Betty Jean Hagan, Margaret Tait, John Pietz; viola, Robert Tait; 'cellos, Phyllis McHaffie and Malcolm Tait; double bass, William Tait; piano, Irene Young—J.O.

TO SPEAK HERE

Dr. Ida S. Scudder, president of the Missionary Medical College for Women, Vellore, India, who will be in Edmonton on Feb. 23, and will lecture to city clubs on recent trends in medical education in India and how they affect the college. On the day of her arrival, she will address a meeting of the interdenominational, W.M.S. Committee, to be held in First Baptist Church.

Dr. I. Scudder To Arrive Here On February 23

Expected to arrive in Edmonton Feb. 23, Dr. Ida S. Scudder, president of the Missionary Medical College for Women, Vellore, India, accompanied by her life long friend and benefactor, Miss Gertrude Dodd, will speak to various Edmonton clubs, and will address the interdenominational meeting of W.M.S. committees, to be held Feb. 23 in First Baptist church at 8 p.m.

Daughter of Dr. John Scudder the second, Dr. Ida S. Scudder has lived in India for many years, and during the famine of 1878-80 she saw women dying because religious customs made it impossible for them to be treated by men physicians. This made her study medicine in a day when women doctors were not popular.

She came to America, studied at Women's Medical College, Philadelphia, and at Cornell, from which she graduated in 1899. Returning to India, she arrived in Bombay on Jan. 1, 1900, at the beginning of a new century, and began practice in Vellore, southwest of Madras.

In 1919 a dream of pioneer women physicians was realized when the Missionary Medical College for women was opened to train the women of India to minister to their own. This soon became international as well as an interdenominational institution, being supported by four English, one Canadian and six Boards in the United States.

The Indian government has raised the standard of medical education in India and Vellore is now affiliated with Madras University. To make this affiliation permanent requires enlarged staff, many new buildings with equipment and increased maintenance. Vellore is the only high grade medical college for women in India though women may be admitted to government colleges with some restrictions.

Dr. Scudder came to America last fall on furlough, expecting to return to India in the spring to inaugurate Bachelor of Medicine and Bachelor of Surgery classes in the college in July. The war has interfered with her plans to go back, and in the meantime, she is speaking on recent trends in medical education in India, and how they affect the college of which she is president.

The college needs a new pathological laboratory, a research department, a largely increased outpatient department, over 200 more hospital beds, 12 more professors and maintenance to carry the additions. Dr. Scudder and friends of Vellore, India, have raised the added funds needed for maintenance for the first two years, but they look to America for building and equipment.

The famous woman doctor of India has been twice decorated by the Indian government for distinguished service in that country. The Kaiser-I-Hind medal was bestowed on her in 1919, and the bar in 1939.

War Captives Have Friend In Tiny Lady

By MARGARET ECKER

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—(CP)—Every Canadian prisoner of war in an enemy camp has a kind, white-haired little woman worrying about him, whether he knows it or not. She is Mrs. H. P. Plumptre, director of the Canadian Red Cross Prisoner of War Bureau.

Every Canadian behind enemy borders is as close to her heart and as much on her mind as if he were her own son, but Mrs. Plumptre doesn't stop her considerations there. She considers the lad's parents, his wife and his sweetheart too.

When it is possible she writes to parents with words of comfort, and "We have the most wonderful letters back, too." Just then her interview with a Canadian Press reporter was interrupted. A man wanted to see Mrs. Plumptre. He had come from Montreal to talk to her. It was another sad story; she said when he had gone. His son has been missing in Europe for five months and he wanted to thank Mrs. Plumptre for her kindness and if anything more could be done to try to locate the boy.

Wait and hope was all Mrs. Plumptre could tell him, for the Red Cross hesitates to try to communicate with missing men not definitely prisoners of war. In many cases they are still alive, somewhere in occupied Europe, and there's a chance they may be able to remain free. If the Red Cross advertised for them, the Nazis might inteasify the search for them, Mrs. Plumptre said.

The man from Montreal was one of hundreds who come to her for advice.

But the food parcels that go out by thousands each week, Mrs. Plumptre and her large staff, mostly volunteer, ward from the prisoners of war. In each parcel is a card and a prisoner fills it out and sends it back to the Red Cross. Already 208,000 of these cards have been sorted.

Through the acknowledgement card, the whereabouts of the man who signed it can be determined. Immediately his next of kin are notified and the message on the card is sent to them, a heart-warming boon to the relatives who wait at home for any scrap of information about their men.

Usually the messages on the cards are merely brief expressions of satisfaction at getting the food. One Vancouver boy, for instance, said the parcel was "okay"—especially the peanut butter. He asked for more.

One English sailor interned in Algeria wrote on his card the story of an attempt to escape: how he and his comrades tunnelled out of the camp and wandered in the desert for days before being recaptured. All this was passed by the Italian censor, who apparently couldn't read English. The sailor now is free and has told the Red Cross that their parcels "kept the prisoners alive" in North Africa.

As she talks, Mrs. Plumptre's bright, grey eyes are warm with sympathy for war prisoners. "I like organizing things," she said—and that might be her war cry. The rosy-cheeked English clergyman's daughter, born in Surrey quite a long time ago, was always a leader. At boarding school she was captain of tennis and hockey teams. She won three scholarships to Oxford and that's how she supported herself through an honors history course at Somerville College.

After her children grew up, Mrs. Plumptre became an organizer in earnest. When her husband returned to Toronto to be rector of St. James' Cathedral she is now retired) she busied herself founding the Canadian Girl Guides. She was national secretary of the Canadian Council of Women and chairman of the emigration committee of the National Y.W.C.A. From August, 1914, to end of the First Great War she was secretary of the Canadian Red Cross.

She was on the Toronto Board of

NEW SUITS ARE "SOFT AND SWEET"

The "soft and sweet" style of 1943 spring suits is typified by the outstanding New York creations above. Although the tweed and white checked wool suit, with gig jacket, at left, presents a quite feminine picture, it uses such man-tailoring tricks as pants pleats and pants pockets on the skirt. The navy wool suit at right has an arresting decoration—a single file of buttons from shoulder to hem on one side. The "soft" look is abetted by clever use of gently rounded details—on soft lapels, hips, cutaway jacket and shirred-front skirt.

R. McEachern, Cpl. Kennedy Wed at Manse

Marriage of Ruth Irene, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. McEachern of Edmonton, to Cpl. William Dougald Kennedy, R.C.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kennedy of Edmonton, took place quietly Saturday evening in McDougall United church manse. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. A. E. McMinn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a tailored, two-piece afternoon frock of Alice blue wool, featuring white sequin trim on the bodice and tiny crown model hat to match. Her other accessories were in tone and she wore a shoulder corsage of sweetheart roses.

Miss Viola Fleming, bridesmaid, was her only attendant. She wore a street-length dress of old rose crepe, two piece model, featuring accessories in medium blue and a corsage of pink delight roses.

Best man was George Kennedy, a brother of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception to nearly 50 guests was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. J. A. Stinson. Bouquets of spring flowers decorated the rooms throughout. The bride's table was set with a white lace cloth, centred by a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked by pink tapers in silver holders. To complete the decoration, pink and white streamers fell from the centre of the ceiling, to the four corners of the table.

Toast to the bride was proposed by Orvis Kennedy, brother of the bridegroom.

The newlyweds left later for Camrose to spend a brief honeymoon and upon their return at the end of the week, will take up residence in Edmonton.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. B. McEachern, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lundy, Mr. and Mrs. G. Gorbet, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Moore, all from Fort Saskatchewan.

Travellers Entertain at Ladies' Night

Guest speaker at the annual Ladies' Day luncheon, of the Edmonton Club, of Associated Canadian Travellers, held Saturday, in the Corona Hotel, was Mrs. Elizabeth Jacobs, late of Folkstone, England, who has recently arrived in Edmonton to make her home with her son, Thomas E. Jacobs.

Mrs. Jacobs spoke of her experiences during the first three years of the war in Folkstone, where she lived within range of enemy guns on the French coast. She has survived many bombing attacks.

The contrast of living there and in Edmonton caused the speaker to remark that "apart from the separation of various members in the forces from their families, we have been little affected by the war."

Toast to the ladies was proposed by Max H. Welch, and responded to by Mrs. J. E. Cranswick.

Seated at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. Aird, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holden, and H. K. Fleming.

Others present included Mr. and Mrs. C. H. T. Dunlop, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sanguin, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Fyfe, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Ahrens, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Air Force Mothers Discuss Problem Of Wings' Club Room

The Air Force Mothers' auxiliary, meeting last week in the Hudson's Bay Company store, discussed the problem of finding a club room to carry on the work of the Army, Navy and Wings' club, which was interrupted when the auxiliary was forced to close its rooms on 102 street last year.

Many letters had been received from R.C.A.F. men in Alaska, to whom the auxiliary had sent Christmas parcels. The men stated that parcels had reached them, and they were exceedingly grateful for them.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was H. P. Brown, president of the branch.

ACUTE CATARRH

MORE AND MORE sufferers from acute catarrh are discovering the grand relief that comes—usually in a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol. It soothes away distress, relieves stuffiness . . . brings real breathing comfort!

3-PURPOSE MEDICINE . . . Va-tro-nol is so non-medicinal because it does three important things at once: (1) shrinks swollen membranes of the nose, (2) clears out nasal passages and (3) soothes irritation. Many catarrh sufferers say it's best relief they've found. Try it!

Fear Governs Forecasts Over Russian Future

Fear of Russian aggression following the war was attributed to confused thinking concerning Russia in the opinion of Sir Bernard Pares, K.B.E., author of many books on pre-Soviet Russia and Soviet Russia, who arrived here Sunday to speak at a joint luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club and the Kiwanis Club.

He termed fears of the spread of Communism as "the bunk", and pointed to the fact that Russia in later years had turned to industrial development, and had forsaken the doctrine of world revolution sponsored by Trotsky.

The assumption of power by Stalin ended the regime of world revolution and Russian efforts then were turned to the internal development of the country. He said that the victims of the purges in Russia had been the men of the world revolution movement.

The great strength of the Russian people today came from the internal development which followed the abandonment of the world revolution movement. It was unlikely that the people of Russia would return to that doctrine. They would be too busy in the post-war period on reconstruction work, and in the further development of their country, he said.

DEFINITE SIGN

Commenting on the successes of the Russian armies he said that there was every evidence of a break in German morale, which had upon the surrender at Stalingrad and the calling of a three day mourning period in Germany as a very definite sign of a breaking in German military power. He was of the opinion that the initiative would rest with the Russian and Allied armies in the spring, and expressed the opinion that the Russians would continue to drive the Germans from Russian soil. He added that it was possible the Russians would halt their advance on the German frontiers.

Significant of the trend in Russia was the attitude toward religion. He said the family was brought back entirely to honor, property was being restored within limits; there had been restoration of civil rights to the clergy and there was a policy of suppression of blasphemous films and pictures. Christians now were accepted to posts in the army and the civil service, and were admitted to play their part in the nation's civilization. Religious pictures might be manufactured and sold, priests were permitted to serve at the front, and Sunday has been restored.

Theft From Purse Is Reported Here

Ten dollars was taken from a purse left on the table of the room in the Sunny Rooms by a man who had entered the place about 3 a.m., Sunday, according to reports given police by Alice Stoicy, an occupant. A sister, Dorothy, had placed the purse on the table and left the premises for lunch, Miss Stoicy told police. She, herself, went to bed shortly afterwards. She was awakened about 3 a.m. she said, by someone in the room. In the unlighted room she could see a man standing near the bed. She screamed, and the man rushed out of the room and down the stairs.

The screams were heard by the caretaker, who was the sound of footsteps down the stairs. No other room was disturbed.

Home-Owners Take In War-Workers

Opening up one's house for a war worker or taking in the wife of a soldier has become an essential war service in cities where rooms are few and industry has brought many strangers to town, stated Miss Annie Carson, Medicine Hat, director of the Medicine Hat Housing Registry of the Women's Sub-Regional Advisory committee, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, who visited Edmonton over the week-end.

Miss Carson, who has been a social worker for 26 years knows the need of a home and the importance of security from day to day.

The idea of taking some stranger into one's house requires quite an adjustment on the part of some homemakers. It has, however, become a patriotic necessity, she said.

An example is being set by the members of the Medicine Hat housing committee. Each of the seven women on the registry committee who has any accommodation to offer, has a war guest in her own home.

25 Cents a Ton Added Coal Cost

Announcement has been made by J. McG. Stewart, coal administrator for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that retail coal dealers of Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, whose ceiling prices are based upon deliveries exceeding one ton, will be permitted to apply an added charge of 25 cents on all deliveries of one ton or less to customers purchasing coal for domestic use.

Due to the necessity of delivering small lots to householders during the present shortage, it is recognized that increased costs are incurred by the distributors, the announcement stated. This increase however, is only effective until March 31 when it must be withdrawn.

The voluntary program of rationing undertaken by the dealers to insure equitable distribution of the coal available will not, it is anticipated, be necessary after the end of March.

The announcement was released in Edmonton by Walter S. Campbell, regional administrator of coal for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

8 Constables Might Resign Police Force

Possibly eight constables are contemplating handing in their resignations to the city police force because they are not satisfied with present working conditions, it was learned Monday. The number leaving may be four but whether the number is four or eight, it will be in addition to six constables who resigned during the last fortnight.

The resignations are being withheld pending the outcome of a meeting Tuesday between the executive of the Edmonton Policemen's association and city commissioners.

Alex Keating, president of the Policemen's association stated Monday that he did not care to discuss what representations the association would make when the executive meets the commissioners.

It has been stated that present working conditions on the force are unsatisfactory for two reasons. First that the wage schedule, for junior constables in particular, is considered inadequate and second by that the seniority system in connection with the promotion of men on the force has been mismanaged.

Chief Constable Matthew Blackwood stated that every man on the force has received a square deal but if any member of the force was not satisfied and wished to resign he had no chance but to let him go.

NEW SCHEDULE

A new salary schedule for the police force will be considered in the city estimates early in the year.

Regular strength of the department is 52 with 20 constables on the relief. Recent resignations have reduced the force to 46. There are 13 in the detective department, five in the morality section and two in the bureau of identification.

The forgoing, with members of the accountant's department, substations at North and South Edmonton and the women's division makes a total force of 95.

Temporary Office Will Be Erected

Erection of a $31,500 frame temporary office building will be proceeded with immediately on the excavation south of the Empire theatre, by Messrs Metcalfe, Hamilton and the Kanada Bridge Co. Ltd. Permit covering this building was issued Monday by the city architect's office.

As a war emergency the city commissioners have waived the building regulations in this area to permit the erection of a frame building on the site. The regulations call for the use of brick in this area.

The company also contemplates erection of a $8,500 structure north of the Empire theatre to house stores and commissariat facilities.

Area Commandant Now a Grandpapa

A communique from Area Commandant headquarters in the Province of Wales armory Monday states: "Mother and grandfather doing well. New soldier also shows promise."

Now the grandfather referred to in the morning communique is none other than Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M. E.D., Edmonton area commandant. He became a grandfather early Monday when his daughter, Mrs. S. D. Cameron, became the mother of a fine baby boy.

The father, Lt. S. D. Cameron, is serving overseas with the 1st Divisional Engineers. The mother is the former Patricia Brown, well-known and highly popular young Edmonton.

In the absence of the father granddad is stuck for the cigars.

Our Boarding House — Major Hoople — Out Our Way — By Williams

Telephone and Telegraph are Modern War's Intricate Lifelines on Home Front
Skilled Army of Civilians Maintains Service at Peak Despite Wartime Load

Telephone and telegraph communications rank high as vital services in wartime. This girl is typical of thousands of operators who maintain the service.

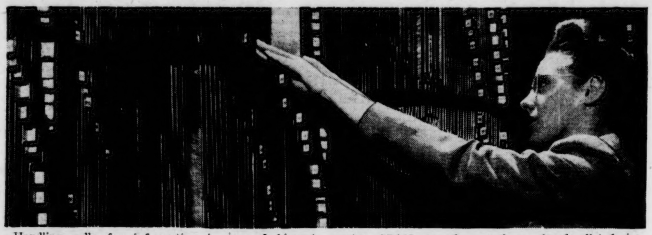

In order to handle the vastly increased load which travels over the wires in wartime many new lines have been installed. James Hammill, left, and his helper, Isaac Morris, splice large underground cables in a Toronto conduit.

This is a section of the Dominion Government switchboard in Ottawa. It is biggest and busiest private exchange in Canada. It has 5,000 instruments for 25,000 government workers. More than 110,000 calls flow through system daily.

Newest wrinkle in voice training, the mirrorphone, makes every pupil her own teacher. Vivian Parr will hear her voice when W. C. McBride turns on the switch.

Handling calls for information is one of biggest headaches for telephone companies. Out of 75,000 such calls handled every day in one metropolitan centre, 55,000 are for numbers already listed in book. Careful reference is stressed by officials. Operator is shown consulting big rotary directory.

Telephone operators, like telegraphists, are experts in their line. Isobel Thomson gets tutoring in her job from Mrs. Margaret Craigie in central exchange.

Womanpower is replacing manpower in the telephone and telegraph industry as elsewhere. Velma Greer, university graduate, collects pay phone nickels.

Jean MacDonald (right) and Gladys Davies are two of many "Quacks" operating military switchboards. Many had previous experience in civilian life.

Installing telephone facilities for training camps of the armed services has been one of biggest jobs undertaken. This battery of phone booths is just a small section of the 46 in operation at R.C.A.F. Manning Depot in Toronto. Resident manager gives exclusive attention here, another at Camp Borden.

The telephone plays a vital role in A.R.P. and plane spotters' work. Jack Robson is on duty in sand-bagged shelter on the roof of a skyscraper.

In the armed services the maintenance of lines of communications is an essential service. The job is performed by the Signal Corps and it involves both telephone and telegraph, as well as wireless, as in case of tanks. Army signalmen are here shown doing splicing job on trans-Atlantic cable on east coast.

In maintaining lines hardest job is fight against sub-zero weather, sleet and ice storms. Linesmen, like one shown here, are unsung heroes of service.

CHAPTER XVI

The guests began to arrive as dusk settled. Cynthia, now, was in something light and airy and pale green, and she was in the house regent's office, nodding her approval of lists and menus.

Fred West and Mitchell Grace came in to join her there, and were naturally, put to work. One had to be sure that the musicians of the orchestra were decently cared for, and the other to make certain that the lights at the pool were in working order and, incidentally, that there was water to plunge into.

Then, cars were rolling up the long, graveled drive, and Cynthia was smiling at people who got out of them.

The early evening was quite beautiful, and its graces of fading blue sky, langorous trees, roses which held their heads high upon the bush, were embellished by the gay, bright frocks which moved across the lawn. There were very many small white tables upon the lawn, and small white chairs, and the usual little groups began to form.

The lights went on in the library. Its glazed doors were swung open, and Colonel Merriwether was behind his desk, smoking, and looking quietly out over the empty terrace, the populated green turf.

Waiters in white coats moved among the tables with trays of drinks, and the orchestra played out an indolent air of summertime.

Time wandered by and time was of no moment.

A few of the older people went into the library, crossing the empty terrace from the lawn to go toward Colonel Merriwether. But none remained long. Those among the company who glanced in that direction could see two or three ladies and gentlemen moving away from the broad desk and returning across the terrace — and there were glimpses of Colonel Merriwether's manservant, attending the needs of his master.

Then, just as a limousine wheeled into the drive and came to a stop there was a curious sound from the library. The music had ended, and this sound struck sharply against the quiet.

It was of the order of a command, a short, undistinguishable word barked out. The well-bred heads upon the lawn turned, not without some irritation, at the uncouth noise. And Vaughan Dunbar stood beside the Colonel's desk.

His left hand was raised—an almost imperial signal to the people on the lawn. It brought a moment of complete silence, the servants stopping in their courses to look, and all faces puzzled, expectant.

Colonel Merriwether sat as it transfixed. His face was very white. His hands were spread before him on the desk. He was staring, not at Vaughan Dunbar, but straight ahead into the faces of his guests, half a hundred yards away.

Vaughan Dunbar held up a sheet of paper in his left hand. Then he laid it calmly on the desk before the Colonel, who did not move. Vaughan Dunbar gazed for an instant down at the face and head of Wesley Hope Merriwether. He lifted his right hand, and with the small pistol that it held fired two shots.

Even as Colonel Merriwether slumped forward over his desk, Vaughan Dunbar was gone.

In the madness of screams and shouts, men cried, "Stop him! Grab him!" But within that same rush of frightened noise, the roar of Vaughan Dunbar's engine could be heard at the rear of the house. His car went off with a whine. The whine diminished rapidly, and its sound was lost.

The pursuit gathered instantly, with motors starting, and servants and chauffeurs yelling. "He went this way!" and, quite contrarian, "He went t', t' way!" Once past the stables, however, the rear approach to Stone House broke into half a dozen lanes and byways. And all of them were empty. The pursuers cried out to each other, and then they turned back toward the house and the telephones.

Within half an hour, all but a very few of the guests were gone, and the police were in possession of Stone House. The ablest among them was Lieutenant Thatcher of the State Police, and he had given many orders, quickly.

Men of his own patrol, of the county forces, and of the sheriff's office were watching the roads of all Long Island. The bridges and the tunnels and the ferries were under close scrutiny. And descriptions of the fugitive had been broadcast, over the radio and the teletype machines, throughout the metropolitan district.

With this much done, Lieutenant Thatcher spoke quietly with Miss Ell Grace, saying, "Tell me every thing you know."

Mitchell Grace told, then, of Vaughan Dunbar's first appearance at Stone House, and of his subsequent appearances there. Also he told of those last few shocking moments.

Curious World —By William Ferguson

McCoy Health Service

The cure of acne depends upon the elimination of those excess materials in the blood stream which have produced the disease. This is best accomplished by a short fast on water and fruit juices, and adopting a diet free from sweet and greasy foods. The juices which may be used are those of orange, grapefruit, tomatoes, and pineapple. When fresh fruits are in season, the whole fruit may be substituted for the juices, if desired, using cherries, apricots, grapes, etc. The fruit juice regimen is to be continued for at least 15 days and during that time the patient is to take one plain warm water enema each day.

Following the fruit juice schedule it is advisable to use large quantities of the non-starchy vegetables, both cooked and raw, especially such vegetables as carrots, spinach, asparagus, beets, string beans, artichokes, eggplant, endive, celery and similar foods.

A moderate amount of meat may be taken daily with these vegetables in cooked and salad form, and stewed fruit and gelatine may be used for dessert. Avoid principally those foods which are rich in fats and sugars, such as doughnuts, cakes, pies, pancakes, sausage, rich cheese, fried foods, candies and soda fountain preparations.

It is a good plan to avoid all sweet desserts and rich foods, sticking to plain simple meals. The drinking of several glasses of water daily is advisable and the water drinking should be continued until the skin condition begins to clear up.

In caring for the affected skin areas, use warm water and soap at least twice each day. The soap will help to remove the excess oil present on the skin surface and also act as an antiseptic. At the beginning of the treatment it is often helpful to steam the face in order to soften the blackheads. This may be done by applying towels wrung out of hot water. After steaming gently, using one hot towel after another, press out the blackheads with the fingers, protecting the skin from injury by the nails by using a clean towel under the fingertips. An even better way is to purchase a comedone extractor at a drugstore. Follow this treatment by using alcohol on the skin.

In especially stubborn cases, the affected area may be treated effectively by means of local treatment given with the ultra violet ray generator or "lamp." This type of treatment is particularly helpful when it is desired to overcome the unnatural condition of the skin within a shorter time. The object in this treatment is to produce a mild peeling of the skin. As the old skin peels off, the fresh new skin from underneath will be exposed. Very often, the results secured from this treatment are most gratifying and a fairly rapid improvement may be secured in this way.

The skin may be further stimulated by bathing the entire body each day. It is often a good plan to use the salt glow by wetting the body all over and then rubbing the skin with common salt until it glows, finishing with a cold shower bath. The salt should be kept away from the affected patches. It must not be used too often.

It is important that the patient with acne take vigorous physical culture exercises each day to strengthen the important abdominal muscles. These will be of value in helping to overcome the tendency to constipation. Many patients using a combination treatment such as I have suggested have been able to secure excellent results in overcoming acne.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

What To Do

When bringing guests home at night after the theatre, who should enter the house first?

Answer—You open your door and enter first. It would be rude to expect your guests to fumble around a strange house in absolute darkness—and we must leave our homes dark these nights when we go out.

You, or your husband, are the ones who know just where the light switch is, so either of you would enter first and turn on the light for your guests. Many homes have a light switch right inside the door but many more do not, and you must walk across the room to turn on a lamp.

Christianity Is Emphasized Sunday Sermon

While there was bloodshed in the building up of the civilization of the Mediterranean and the Atlantic, it would be as a drop in the bucket compared to the bloodshed in the Pacific unless the Christian ideals of life permeate the lives of those living around it, R. M. Millar of Vancouver declared in a sermon delivered at Central United Church on Sunday.

A leading business executive in Vancouver, Mr. Millar for many years has been a prominent and active layman in St. Andrew's-Wesley church in that city. While in Edmonton Mr. Millar has addressed a number of club meetings as well as Sunday messages.

The tribute of the eminent United States writer, Dr. Stanley High to Great Britain was repeated by Mr. Millar, who said that Great Britain was undeniably one of the most commanding and impressive nations of the world. The United States was a member, with the British peoples, of the Anglo-Saxon race—which was one of the most outstanding races of all time.

LIVING STANDARDS

Speaking of the high standard of living enjoyed by the people of North America, Mr. Millar eulogized the Pilgrim Fathers who came over on the Mayflower searching for freedom and the right to worship God in their own way. "They laid the foundations of our spiritual traditions for which we are now bleeding and dying today," he said.

The centre of commercial civilization yesterday was the Mediterranean, today is was the Atlantic and tomorrow it would be the Pacific.

The Christian ideals of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness must permeate the hearts and lifes of those millions living around the Pacific if terrible bloodshed was to be avoided.

TRIBUTE IS PAID

Mr. Millar paid tribute to the great personalities of China, India and Africa who had placed service above self in bettering conditions for their fellow men and in making the world generally a better place in which to live.

The Vimy Memorial, he declared, was a bridge of sacrifice and a constant reminder that the men of their generation had passed on the torch.

"God help us to hold it high that we may find over that blood-bought highway, and the one that is being built today, the sacrificial road to permanent world peace and happiness. The good we do must be done today. Yesterday is dead, today is here, tomorrow may never come."

Settlement of War Veterans To Be Discussed

Plans for the settlement of war veterans in Alberta will be discussed with provincial and Dominion government officials here by G. Murchison, Ottawa, director of the Veterans' Land Act, 1942, and the Soldiers' Land Act, 1919, who arrived in Edmonton Sunday.

He was accompanied by O. C. White and H. R. Holmes, of the soldier settlement department at Ottawa, and W. K. Railwell, a treasury department representative.

He said that the head office for the Veterans' Land Act administration would be located at Edmonton, and a branch office, to administer the Soldiers' Settlement Act, 1919, would be maintained at Calgary.

Mr. Murchison was superintendent of the Soldier Settlement Board here from 1925 to 1938, and has been engaged on rehabilitation studies at Ottawa for the past two years.

WON'T START YET

He said it was not the government's intention to start immediately with land settlement of demobilized veterans as there was abundance of work available in the nation's war effort for men physically capable of undertaking it.

Section of returned soldiers, he said, would be effected in settled areas where there were well established social services, and as far as possible they would be settled in the districts from which they enlisted.

SOLDIERS BUY TANKS

"An Historic Moment"

This handshake between General Henri Giraud (left), high commissioner for French North Africa, and General Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French, symbolized a closer understanding and a promise of co-operation between the two French factions. They are pictured in the garden of a villa in Casablanca, French Morocco. Seated between them, his face obscured by their gesture of friendship, is President Roosevelt, who commented: "This is an historic moment."

United States Plans to Erect Hospital Here

empowered to enter into the necessary agreement which should include a clause exempting the city from losses arising out of the existence and operation of the line.

The land to be leased to the United States government for the erection of the hospital is bounded on the east by 101 street, 113 avenue on the south, 106 street on the west and Portage avenue on the north. It includes all intervening streets and lanes, and covers an area of 39 acres.

MAJORITY CITY-OWNED

The land is owned entirely by the city with the exception of four lots, on three of which there are buildings. It is proposed that the city acquire both the land and buildings on the best possible terms, and that the cost of such purchase will be included in the first year's rental.

In case of difficulty in securing these properties the commissioners are asking for the authority of council to take such steps towards expropriation as may be necessary.

The commissioners ask also for authority to make an application to the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners for the cancellation of the lots and the intervening streets and lanes. It was pointed out that these streets and lanes could be placed back as public highways when the property ceased to be used for hospital purposes.

The United States government will construct all necessary extension of utilities and other public works at its own expense, and the commissioners have requested that as far as practicable utility extensions will follow the lines of the present streets and lanes.

ASK QUICK ACTION

The United States authorities are asking that the lease be entered into as quickly as possible. It will be for the war's duration and for one year thereafter, the extension beyond the end of the war being to permit the U.S. government to remove the buildings.

Council will consider also the application from Kesahiro Iwashita, father of a Japanese family already granted permission to reside in Edmonton, to come here to live with his family. The family is now residing with Mrs. Magala, 9024 109A avenue, and she is quite willing that Mr. Iwashita take up residence there.

Other matters on the agenda are of a routine nature.

Damage Heavy as Truck, Car Crash

Damages of $25 to a coupe and $200 to a truck, were the result of a crash on southeast Kingsway avenue about 4 p.m. Saturday. The coupe was owned and driven by C. Edward Gagne of Legal, Alta., while the truck, owned by the E.C.D., was driven by David Anderson, 12776 117 street.

The accident occurred when Gagne stopped as a car ahead of him came to a halt. Anderson did not see the car in front of the coupe, he stated, but he did see the brake lights of the coupe come on suddenly. He applied his brakes, but due to the icy ruts in the streets, the brakes were powerless to hold him back, and he crashed into the rear of the coupe.

Grill, radiator, a fender and fender light on the truck were broken, while damage to the coupe was confined to rear bumper guards, gravel skirt, compartment door and left rear fender.

New Pulpit at Christ Church Is Dedicated

Dedication of a new pulpit by the Rt. Rev. W. F. Barfoot, Anglican Bishop of Edmonton, took place on Sunday morning at Christ church. The dedication service took the form of a Choral Communion. The rector of Christ church, the Rev. E. S. Ottley, conducted the service.

The pulpit has been presented to the church by Alfred Chard in memory of the late Dorothy Anne Chard.

The pulpit, said Bishop Barfoot, was a dedication to the memory of a mother and church woman. It was an inspiration to good living.

Speaking of the beauty of the pulpit, Bishop Barfoot said it was an embodiment of the beauty of life. This he said, was fitting because it was a symbol of God's unchanging love.

The pulpit was designed by R. P. Blakey, well-known Edmonton architect, and is in an early English design.

Made of white oak, the carvings, which are of a conventional motif, were designed by Maj. H. F. Norbury, prominent Edmonton artist.

tion. When the war is over the general public will have a weather forecasting service per excellence. The "breeding" ground for the North American weather is the bleak area around the Behring Straits and the Northwestern Arctic. Weather changes invariably move from northwest to southeast. A sudden change at Fairbanks, Alaska, or Whitehorse, Yukon, means that Edmonton will experience a change within 24 hours, as a rule.

There are, of course, exceptions, but in general, major weather changes have this kind of movement.

This was brought home over the week-end. Saturday morning was beautiful and mild here. But a change occurred in the far northwest and a cold wave was on its way southeast. Warnings were radioed from northern weather stations that the change would be experienced in Edmonton either early in the afternoon or Saturday evening. We know how accurate that forecast was.

After the war we will be able to plan our holidays with intelligence. We'll know what kind of clothes to take with us when we go for a week-end to the country. We won't be able to order the kind of weather we want any more than now but we will be able to order our lives so that the weather will cause us only the absolute minimum of inconvenience.

Crimson Lake Lad Seeking to Enlist

Robert Carswell wants to be an R.C.A.F. pilot, and if grit and stamina will do the trick, Robert Carswell will certainly be a pilot.

Carswell, who is 17 years and six months of age, lives at Crimson Lake, in the Rocky Mountain House area.

On January 29, he walked 10 miles with the mercury at 50 below zero. He heard a mobile recruiting unit was in Rocky Mountain House. But he made his walk for nothing, as the recruiting trip had been called off because of the bad weather.

This week he made the long trek again and his persistence and pluck was rewarded this time.

He is now in the air force and should make good.

During her stay here she will confer with members of womens' organizations and will meet as many of the rank and file of the women of the district as possible.

On Monday night she will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Edmonton Council of Social Agencies, and on Thursday night she will speak to a meeting of women affiliated with the Rotary Club. Meeting Protests Enlarged District

Protest against the proposed formation of an enlarged municipal district from existing municipal districts adjacent to Red Deer, was approved at a meeting held at Red Deer Friday. There were present representatives from the municipal districts of Pine Lake, Golden West, Loch Earn, Lorne, Crown and Arthur.

P. Sigurdsen, councillor for Golden West and former reeve, presided. Speakers included Paul L. Parnalls, president of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts; J. M. Wheatley, vice-president, and Alfred Speakman, M.L.A. for Red Deer and leader of the Independent group in the legislature.

The meeting endorsed a resolution protesting formation of the enlarged district without a vote of ratepayers first being taken and urging that no alteration in present boundaries be made until a vote was taken.

This resolution was worded in similar terms to resolutions passed at four previous meetings held in the same area and all dealing with formation of the enlarged district. This was the fifth and final meeting of the series, and was held under the auspices of the Central Alberta Municipal Association, "at the request of many ratepayers of central Alberta."

The meeting regretted that no representative of the municipal affairs department had attended, although an invitation to do so had been forwarded.
